ANNUAL MEETING.

The members of the auxiliary society of the First Church of Middletown were the hospitable and efficient hostesses on the occasion of the thirty-third annual meeting of the New Haven Branch of the Woman's Board of Missions, held May 10, 1904.

After an informal preliminary prayer-meeting, led by Mrs. Burt of Ivoryton, the regular morning session was called to order by the president, Miss Daggett, at quarter past ten o'clock. The minutes of the previous meeting were followed by the hymn, "A charge to keep I have," by the reading of scattered selections of Scripture, and by prayer offered by Mrs. Rice of the Methodist Board. Reports of the home work were given as usual by the home secretary, Mrs. Sheldon, by the secretary in charge of the junior department, Miss Prudden, and by the treasurer, Miss Twining. In connection with the treasurer's report, it was gratifying to hear of the conscientious, sustained effort of the societies during the year, and the notable advance achieved by some, though losses elsewhere brought the total to a figure very little nearer than the sum reported the previous year to the sixteen thousand dollars asked annually of this Branch by the Woman's Board. The work abroad was summarized by Mrs. Danforth, copies of whose full report were distributed by the ushers.

Business connected with the election of officers, the naming of delegates to the annual meeting of the Board, and the appointment of the nominating committee was then transacted, and Mrs. Jewell, president of the Hartford Branch, led in prayer in behalf of the newly elected officers and the work of the year. The hymn "Ye servants of the Lord, Each in his office wait," was followed by a notice of proposed changes in the constitution to be acted on at the October meeting.

Mrs. E. S. Hume, though she was to be the speaker of the afternoon, had consented to say a few words at the morning session, and she expressed her pleasure at meeting the ladies of Middlesex County and telling them of the brave, hopeful work done by the Middlesex School in Bombay, in the face of sad interruptions cau sed by plague.

Mr. Hume made the chief address of the morning.
He spoke of the devoted life of his mother, and of her grasp, sixty years ago, of the principle upon which all missionary work is today carried on, namely the need of training natives to be leaders,—teachers and preachers, in their own land. He said that since 1881 no funds of the American Board had been applied to the support of the Bombay church. He told how small a part of the income of the Marathi mission is derived from the Board; and comparing the amount thus derived with the large grants coming from the government and donations from other sources, showed that should the home churches, like the owner of the talents in the parable, demand their own with usury, the mission could meet the demand. He spoke also of the great surgical skill of Dr. Karmarkar, and the impression that the work of this trained woman makes among her own people.

A devotional service, led by Mrs. Phipps of Prospect, closed the exercises of the morning, and adjournment was taken that all might accept the invitation to luncheon given by Mrs. Atwater in behalf of the missionary society of the church.
The afternoon session was opened with the hymn, "Watchman, tell us of the night." This was followed by an address by Miss Browne, the new secretary for junior work of the Woman’s Board, who, from the watch-tower of the Board rooms in Boston, reported a deficit in the treasury for the first half of the current fiscal year, as compared with a year ago, but who sounded a hopeful note as she told of interest awakened by the field secretary, Miss Kyle, and of a proposed summer school at Northfield for the training of the leaders so sadly needed in religious work in the churches.

From the watch-tower of the Marathi mission Mrs. Hume reported the far-reaching results of "Mother Hume’s" work, in the character and attainments of men and women, now filling positions of responsibility, who as children came under her influence. She spoke of the high educational standard of the girls’ school today, and the brilliant showing of its graduates in competitive tests; she referred to her own work as "training the young with reference to richer, better service," and gave a glimpse of the varied duties which she is called upon to perform in meeting the emergencies constantly arising in a family of seven hundred children. She deplored the fact that many women in the home churches are not enrolled in the cause of missions, and closed with the injunction, "Break up your fallow ground."

Prayer was offered by Miss Willard, president of the Eastern Connecticut Branch, and a poem, "The Higher Call to the Work that Abides," was read by its author, Mrs. McLane. Mrs. Cogswell, of Stratford, reported the latest tidings from a group of young missionaries in whom the New Haven Branch is especially interested, Miss Wilson and Miss Norton of Turkey, and Mrs. Elizabeth Hume Hunsberger, Mrs. Hannah Hume Lee, Dr. Ruth Hume, and Miss Madoline Campbell of India. All these have gone out within the past year, and their letters have been full of interest.

After a final hymn, and the adoption of a vote of thanks, proposed by Mrs. Vorce, to all who had in any way contributed to the success of the meeting, a responsive service arranged by Mrs. Fairchild was read, prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Hazen, pastor of the church, and the meeting closed with the doxology and the benediction.

Elizabeth Bradley Browning.
REPORT OF THE HOME SECRETARY.

Looking over the reports for the past year, this message is brought forcibly to mind—"He that hath ears to hear, let him hear what the spirit saith unto the churches. I know thy works and thy toil and patience: thou hast patience, and didst bear for my name's sake, and hast not grown weary." Listen: "The small auxiliaries in our isolated hill towns have been loyally faithful, and in spite of the inclement season most of them have maintained regular meetings. One of them, having but nine members, has an average attendance of five, and meets every month. The members of a widely-scattered society, far from railroads, so that they can rarely have the stimulus of the Branch annual meeting, meet ten times during the year, and are enjoying the mission study. One auxiliary reports the great help which the attendance of their minister gives: he assists in their study of Lux Christi, and closes their meetings with prayer. This society takes the lead in enthusiasm."

From another county comes the report: Several of the auxiliaries in this group have given the amount asked. The sum total asked from them was a little less than $800; gifts amounting to $820 have already been received, and it is a cause for thanksgiving that while some have not succeeded in reaching the mark, others have more than completed the deficiency. In this report, as in many others, reference is made to the interest and enthusiasm which have developed with the study of Rex Christus. One of the smallest societies of this group purchased ten copies and has done good work.
In this connection, let us quote from the report of an auxiliary in another county: "The study of Rex Christus is proving itself extremely interesting and beneficial to all. We are discovering new talents among our members, and finding every year more who are willing to prepare for and lead the meetings. The average attendance shows a decided increase, and we are able a third time to report a slight increase in our annual contribution to the Branch."

Here are other testimonies to the interest awakened by the mission study. "China has been pretty generally the topic for the year," writes one vice president, "and much interest, through greater knowledge, has been taken in that wonderful land." A secretary writes: "We are studying China, and use the text-book Rex Christus. We find the afternoon too short as the history of that country with its millions of inhabitants opens up before us, and too soon the hour for the customary missionary tea arrives." This social hour is made useful in more ways than one, for the secretary adds: "We have adopted the plan of paying our treasurer the small sum of five cents for our cake and tea. This seems to work very well; no one feels the small tax, and it will in the course of the year add quite a little to the missionary fund." In much the same line of gathering the littles, she says, "We have used as heretofore the envelopes furnished by the Board for both the Lenten and Thank-offerings, and we are sure that many a dime is secured, which, were it not for these little messengers, would never find its way into the mission treasury."

Many reports bring us tidings of faithful continuance, despite the hindrances from inclement weather, impassable roads, or small numbers. Indeed one vice president writes, "I find that in the country the smaller the hill town, the more isolated it is, the doing and giving are much more, in proportion, than in larger places." From a secretary we hear: "Our society remains about the same, through storm or sunshine, bright or cloudy days. If one member is not able to bring her offering, some one steps in to make it up. It is a safe thing to say we have some very earnest, praying women." Another auxiliary in the same county sends this message: "Notwithstanding last year's losses from death and removal, the list of members contains two more names. While some have not given as much as last year and some of the larger givers are gone, others have made a larger offering than usual, and we expect to reach the sum named as our share."

There is evidence of much personal work in the effort to sustain the membership and contributions of societies. Several speak of apportioning the church among a group of collectors and asking every member for a gift. "After sending out a circular letter," writes one, "we personally solicit from all the ladies of our congregation." The president of a society numbering five members writes: "I am going to write to each one and ask for all they feel able to give; and breathe a prayer to my Father in Heaven, to open their eyes to see the need of giving; also to make them just think whom they are giving it to, and who has promised to richly reward the cheerful giver."

A jubilant note comes from one society which has just held its annual meeting and reports ten new members and a larger contribution than last year. The City Missions Mothers' Circle of New Haven reports an increase in its contribution of over twenty-five per cent. There is inspiration, too, in these messages: "In addition to our regular meetings, which have been well attended and are always full of interest, there are three ladies supporting two Bible women, and we are mothering, grandmothering and great-grandmothering the full quota of circles." "One auxiliary that numbers nearly two hundred members, with bi-monthly meetings, records an April meeting for several consecutive years in charge of the Christian Endeavor Society. At the last one fourteen Endeavorers took some special part, showing growing interest among the rising generation." In the vice-president's report of this section comes the following: "'Nothing new to report,' writes a secretary, and then electrifies us with reports of a thank-offering which reached high water mark; a sermon by the pastor before their auxiliary comparing their work to the leaven hid in three measures of meal, the expectation of exceeding in their annual collections all previous figures, and ending with the hope that next year every woman in the church will believe in foreign missions and be enrolled for its support."

It seems a pity that here and there a minor chord is struck which is out of harmony with our anthem of praise. From a few of our larger societies comes the report of lessened contributions, but we are assured that there is no less interest, the decrease being caused by the loss, by death or removal, of members who have been generous givers. Is there not a suggestion worthy of adoption by many in the word which comes from one of the small societies? "There are now three daughters among our members who have contributed their own gifts, and have added in their mothers', since they went home." One society of long standing "notes its first bequest from one whose devoted service is a sweet memory. It came like a message of love from the Choir Invisible, 'whose music is the gladness of the world.' 'May it bring the sweet influence of a good diffused, and in diffusion be to other souls the cup of strength.'"

From many other societies valued helpers, or generous givers, have been called to the "rest that remaineth." Among these is the auxiliary of Center Church, New Haven, from which has been taken one who was not only loyal to that society, but equally so to the Branch. Mrs. Farnam provided by her generous gifts to the permanent fund of the Branch for the perpetuity of her annual contribution, and in addition, gave many special donations, which lightened the burdens and gladdened the hearts of many a weary worker on the field.

The treasurer gives us some interesting items. "The earnest spirit which animates the Branch has been shown the past year very markedly in the fact that ninety-three of the senior auxiliaries have made an increase in contributions. In some cases this increase has been by very small amounts. Forty have made the one-fifth increase requested by the W. B. M.; several have made an increase of one-third; two (East Haven and Plymouth Church, New Haven) have doubled their receipts; two (North Haven and Roxbury) have tripled; one (Harwinton), by a special gift, quadrupled. We distinctly recognize that some societies where no advance was made did as good work as those more successful in raising money, but adverse circumstances prevented success according to their desires. Eleven auxiliaries sent the same sum as in 1902. We regret that in some societies the gain made one year ago was not repeated. Quite a number of mission circles made a large increase, but this was more than offset by a larger decrease in other circles and in other departments of junior work."

The Secretary of the Bureau of Information reports continued interest in mission study as indicated by calls for the text-book, literature bearing on its chapters, pictures and maps. Referring to the missionary letters, which, "through the cheerful offering of time and labor on the part of the copyists, are sent to societies most interested in the respective fields," she says, "Glimpses are thus given of what is being wrought in darkened lands; glimpses, too, of what might be accomplished, did gifts from the treasuries at home permit." She says nothing of the "cheerful offering of time and labor" on the part of the secretary herself, but the careful preparation of the monthly letter, the providing for the auxiliaries' exchange regularly, even when auxiliaries send nothing to exchange, and the painstaking selection of material for special topics, afford sufficient evidence of her loving service.

The marked event of the year to the Branch was the annual meeting of the Woman's Board in November, when we welcomed to our homes twenty-eight missionaries, twenty-three official representatives of the Woman's Board, and about two hundred and fifty delegates. A large proportion of our societies were represented by one or more members, who carried home inspiration from the earnest discussions of delegates' day, the able and impressive papers, and the tender and inspiring missionary addresses.

We are glad to report that we have lost no officers from the senior department of the Branch the past year. Our President, Miss Daggett, feeling unable to carry longer the care and responsibility of the office, told us some months ago that she must decline a re-election for the coming year. It was the unanimous and heartfelt opinion of the Executive Committee that, while recognizing the reasonableness of her decision, we could not accept her full resignation. It is a cause of rejoicing that we are able to report that such a division of labor and care has been arranged that Miss Daggett has consented to remain temporarily as our presiding officer and counsellor, ready always to give time for conference, and wishing to keep in close touch with the work.

So let us begin the new year with hope and courage and determination; and be not negligent, for the Lord hath chosen us to stand before Him and to serve Him.

E. W. T. Sheldon.
REPORT OF THE JUNIOR DEPARTMENT.

As we marshal the Junior forces in mental review for the annual field day, there is mingled pain and pleasure in the long procession that winds down from the hills and up from the shore, by city streets, and through country lanes. Pleasure, that the ranks are so full and the march so steady; pain, that there are so many vacancies, where either there has been no enlistment or the forces have fallen by the way. It is not that eager boys and girls and strong young women all have too much else to do, although we must recognize the stress of life upon them; it is not the claim of other organizations, although their help is asked for many lines of Christian service. Over against each break in the ranks might be written, "Wanted, a leader!" There are not enough women, young or old, in these four western counties of Connecticut willing to sacrifice time and effort in enlisting more such companies!

We "expect great things" from our Junior forces when we set aside work for them that amounts to $4,663.66. We may be disappointed, but we cannot be very much discouraged when from all sources, Endeavor Societies and Sunday Schools, as well as Young Ladies' and Children's Circles, and Cradle Rolls, we receive about $3,500. "Marked Advance," is the joyful note with which some have brought in the money. "Faint, yet pursuing," is the tune to which others have marched, while "Patient continuance in well doing" has been the word all along the line. Increasing interest in those whom not having seen they have yet learned to love, is the result of the effort and self-sacrifice that the money represents. Medical work in India or China means something to those that take shares in the dispensaries. Mrs. Eaton's appreciative words to the girls help them to realize the privilege of partnership with their missionary, especially when they see how such simple things as bags and aprons, skirts and cut-over stockings may advance the Kingdom of God in Mexico. The Bombay school is very real to those who receive stories and incidents in the shape of "a Bombay letter" now and then.

Eleven women constitute the staff of Junior officers whose effort is to strengthen by all means in their power the bond between the young people and the foreign missionary work. Letters by the score and hundred have carried their white-winged messages of encouragement, information and suggestion from each center outward. The mimeograph, the typewriter, the printer, and the pen have each served their turn. One Christian Endeavor secretary prepared for her societies hints for programmes, and called attention to helpful articles in books and periodicals. The Primary Sunday-schoools had a bright letter prepared by Mrs. Cushing, who reminded them that the Morning Star Mission needed to be supported while they help build the new ship. The annual Cradle Roll letter was varied by enclosing a picture of a Kindergarten child in Japan. Indirectly, it was hoped that this letter might serve as an advertisement of the Dayspring, the paper that comes every month from Boston, so full of interest for children that it is a regular storehouse of ammunition for mission circles. Our hope of meeting the advance by an increase of Junior societies has not been fulfilled.
We hear of a Sunday-school class here and there gathered for sewing or missionary information. There come occasional contributions for boxes or the treasury from some of them. We know of mission study classes that will surely sometime bear fruit. There are inquiries in regard to Cradle Rolls. All, straws that may show the way of the wind, but not yet material for report. Some reorganizations will doubtless mean as much as new circles, but only three bona fide new ones have been reported. A circle in East Haven has found a division of one into two more practicable, on account of diversity in age. The youngest addition to the ranks is from Ivoryton, a circle organized May 3d under the name "Mission Helpers." Another, but little older, has honored the official head of the department by choosing her name. This circle is in the Park Street church in Bridgeport, and is the fruit of growing interest and responsibility on the part of the strong young ladies' society there. They hold a large pledge for Branch work which they have never failed to meet. In fact, for some years they have given beyond their pledges. This year, knowing there were church repairs in which their utmost efforts were enlisted, we anticipated no extra gifts, but they have sent, not only their pledge, but $75.00 instead of the usual $50.00 beyond. It is they who have gathered this new circle and are going to let the fire of their enthusiasm kindle a love for foreign missions in the hearts of the girls. The Young Ladies' Society in New Milford has enlarged the scope of its usefulness in arranging for a rally, where Miss Brown came to inspire with a call to make the most of life's opportunities, and a Student Volunteer to present Mission Study classes. It was an enthusiastic meeting; there was a social luncheon, and we shall be surprised if there does not come at least one mission circle out of it. This circle, also, makes its gifts in a constantly increasing ratio, earning money by cake sales on Saturdays. As they pay for the cost of materials, the enterprise is on a strictly business basis.

We are never quite sure about the number of Cradle Rolls until the items of the Treasurer's report appear. They depend so entirely on that "one woman," who does sometimes fall sick, or move away, or they are organized simply for the enrollment of the babies of the Sunday-school. A new one does not necessarily mean alliance with us. We hear of one in Plymouth and we know of one in Woodbridge whose story must be told. A young married woman, who had recently come to the place, felt that there ought to be a Cradle Roll, but there seemed no way to get it. To use her own words, "I was met by the insinuation variously indicated, 'It is most painfully evident that you came from the city.' It was indeed true that I had not fully realized the handicap that country distances presented. Miles and miles must be covered before that town could be canvassed for babies." The matter dropped; but later the opportunity came through a Sunday-school class and the leadership of the Mission Band. The girls of the class were all members of the band and their houses were well scattered over the town. She gave them a week to find out all the babies. Then, where their fields overlapped, she divided the names. The enrollment cards and Miss Burnham's Cradle Roll story helped them. The girls were encouraged to feel that it was an exceptional opportunity to do real missionary work. They entered upon their task with an enthusiasm that was contagious. Mothers were requested to fill out the cards and bring them with the babies to a party to be given by the members of the Golden Rule Band. There was an enrollment of forty, and but few babies left in the town who were not in it. Sixty came to the party, where the mothers had a chance to compare babies, receive a copy of the "Mother's Morning Prayer," and a missionary leaflet. Each child was given a picture of some heathen little one, mounted by the Golden Rule Band for the occasion. Cannot other dwellers in country towns where conditions seem impossible do likewise? These babies who come to the parties and drum on the table with their spoons can call more loudly to their mothers than any other influence.

We have grand workers among our women. One who puts five hours of work into a half hour's missionary game, another who is not afraid of "a little clean dirt" on the floor since she has given "lots of fun to the children," teaching them how the Chinese eat by letting them eat broken crackers and cookies with unsharpened lead pencils. There is the woman who takes an epidemic of measles in her town as an opportunity to "spring missionary reading matter on some people," and says it is "fun" to have them discover that it is interesting. There is the woman who is thankful that her husband is not hard on his stockings, because it gives her extra time to look after the missionary interests of the Christian Endeavor Societies.

We have no means of knowing how many societies have made contributions to the illustrative exhibit of work, so attractively proposed by the Boston Committee, but we do know cases where working for it has been stimulating and valuable to the children. Where, because of the attempt to prepare something, they have learned to locate the mission stations on neatly made maps, where much useful knowledge has been fixed in the memory by the pictures cut and pasted in the sample scrap-book.

The Endeavor Societies in Litchfield County have faithfully maintained their interest in Wai during the long time of Mrs. Sibley's enforced rest. Miss Myers' efficient labors among Endeavor Societies in Middlesex County have resulted in larger contributions than for ten years before. We deeply regret that Miss Myers is unable to carry forward the impulse so well started, but are glad to welcome in Mrs. Clarke another efficient worker in both Christian Endeavor and missions.

Whatever other worlds may give us, we shall not pass this way again; and to us mothers, grandmothers, aunts, teachers, friends, is given the chance to influence the young people to choose the best out of all that life offers, to make the choice that will give the most to them and to the world; the choice that will lift them out of the ranks of indifferent and self-centred Christians. A party of travelers once stood at the top of a mountain, a position won by a toilsome climb that tried both muscles and nerves. But the view was most rewarding with its far look over miles of space, expanding one's soul with a sense of the infinite. Distant peaks of rocky ranges, snowy slopes, rivers, waterfalls and lakes. A never-to-be-forgotten sense of God's greatness made the day's trip an abiding inspiration to those who lifted their eyes to see. There was one, however, who produced a pocket-mirror and spent those precious minutes in rearranging her hair. Another picked the pretty flowers that grew at her feet, while a third found snowballing in August her best employment. Like all life it was a matter of choices, and each took what she wished most, personal adornment, passing enjoyment, amusement, all legitimate parts of the day's work, but none of them comparable to the "far look." Which shall be our choice for the young people?

FOREIGN REPORT.

Mexico, Micronesia, Africa and China, Mrs. H. J. PRUDDEN.
Japan and India, Mrs. A. B. MILLER.
Turkey, Mrs. W. B. DANFORTH.

"Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard? The everlasting God, Jehovah, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary."—Isaiah 40:28.

If demonstration of this were needed, it would be found in the survey of the work which He has done—through his servants—in the Foreign field the past year.

MEXICO.

"In our Mexican work," Mrs. Eaton writes, "we surely are beginning to see the 'fruit of our labors'—as one of our women said to me the other day—in the efficient work of our pastor and his wife, children of our mission, converted, educated and consecrated through its instrumentality. The pastor has wonderful tact with children, and their numbers in Sunday-school have greatly increased, even children of those who are not Protestants come, a thing which was almost unheard of formerly. I do enjoy my class of young mothers, many of them graduates from our school, with bright minds, whom it is a privilege to direct. Our woman's work goes on about as usual, though with an increased attendance at the prayer-meeting."
A notable feature at the State Convention, held at Chihuahua in the fall, was the Temperance Rally, when two able Roman Catholics, an editor and a physician, presented papers. Remembering past years, this event marked an epoch in the Protestant work. Of the five native preachers on the platform at the Sunday-school session, Mrs. Eaton says, “All were our boys.”

Now that the Mexican church is “learning to walk alone,” Dr. and Mrs. Eaton are giving their attention somewhat more to the English work. At a meeting held on April 4th, it was voted to organize the congregation worshiping in “Trinity Memorial” into a church for English-speaking people.

The school is in good condition, one hundred and one pupils having been matriculated, with a present enrollment of eighty-two. Miss Hammond’s health is not good. She had been bracing up “till Miss Long comes,” and when she came the reaction set in, and for a while it seemed that she would have to leave for a rest almost immediately, but she is still at work. Miss Long takes some of the higher classes, has some superintendence of the Kindergarten and teaches a beautiful class of twenty-five in the Primary Sunday-school. Her presence and help in every branch of the work have been wonderfully strengthening.

MICRONESIA.

The English Commissioner on the Gilbert Islands paid a high compliment to the girls who have been educated in the Kusaian schools. He said they were “always lady-like and well-behaved,” and marked the difference between them and the other girls on the island. In 1902, three girls married and went with their husbands to help in the island work. On May 1, 1903, the pupils numbered fifty-four: twenty-four Gilbert girls, twenty-five Marshall and three Kusaian.

SPAIN.

The past year is memorable as the first spent by the International Institute for girls in its permanent location at Madrid. It was permitted Mrs. Gulick to see the achievement of her efforts for this, but not to enter with the rest, for she had entered the gate of the celestial city, and her burden of care, borne so bravely for many years, was forever removed.

The percentage of high marks received by the girls taking the examinations in the Government Institute in 1903, is said to be the largest ever given to any group of students, extra muros, presenting themselves for examinations in that institute. They also received special social courtesies. Five of the students united with the church during the year.

AFRICA.

Inanda Seminary.—Mrs. Edwards writes: "The school is now well equipped with all-round teachers. Miss Phelps, at the head, is an exceptionally well fitted person for the position." Mrs. Edwards' contemplated furlough in the home-land has in it an element of sadness from her reflection, "After thirty-five years one's friends are on the other shore." Soon after achieving success in getting the water to flow from the well, by means of a syphon, down one hill and up another to within one hundred and seventy-five yards of the laundry, Mrs. Edwards sprained her knee while on a tour of oversight of the farm, thus incapacitating herself for weeks.
The farm harvest was lessened two-thirds by the drought, last year. Locusts have returned in increased numbers to be fought, and white ants have felled nearly one-third of the fine avenue of Eucalyptus trees planted in 1900. Mrs. Edwards says, “You will think my letter full of complaint. No, I would fill it with praise and thanksgiving for souls saved during the year.”

The native teachers have done good work, and the spirit and temper of the girls is good. To fill the girls with ambition for a higher education is the aim—a difficult task—of the teachers. It is hoped that a recent government regulation requiring certificated head-teachers in all the schools, while shutting out some who would otherwise be teaching, may ultimately be the means of arousing this ambition in the girls. A number of former pupils are now teaching and many others are making exemplary Christian homes.

The one distinctive event which made last year a marked one was the visit of the deputation from the American Board. When the sad news of the death of Mrs. Sydney Strong reached Inanda, one of the women at a prayer-meeting thanked God that He had “permitted her to go home by way of Natal,” that they might see and know her before she went to Heaven.

Dr. Bower has been in America the past year, and since many have had the privilege of listening to her graphic account of the work, it is impossible here to add to the full and interesting information she has given.

CHINA.

TUNG-CHO.—Miss Andrews is installed in their new house, which has so far proved comfortable and convenient. She says: “The year has been a hard one.
From the beginning I was overburdened with work." In Miss Evans' absence, she took an extra class in college, which, with the one college and seminary class she had before, and all her other work, was more than her strength warranted, and the inevitable sickness followed. She is in full work again and well, except very tired. The mission has been through the hardest experience ever known in its educational work, arising from the insubordination of certain students who have since left the college. The trouble was quite overwhelming, but she says: "The record of the year has not been all bad and sad. There have been many things to make us glad, and the work has prospered in many ways:"

Five new out-stations have been opened, and there have been accessions to the church. The five small schools and the Woman's Christian Association have done good work. The new chapel and hospital were completed and opened in the fall.

Of Miss Chapin's absence, Miss Andrews says: "How much I miss her, how much everybody misses her, and how much the work misses her, no words can tell." Of her enforced leaving for health reasons, Miss Chapin says: "I need not mention what a trial it is to drop out, even temporarily, when there seems so much to be done and so few to do it. God only knows what it costs, but the work is His and He loves it far more than we can, and we know that 'He doeth all things well,' so we can trust Him when we do not understand." She is now in Tucson, Arizona.

Foochow.—Miss Garretson calls the Girls' Preparatory Boarding School, "the power-house of all our woman's work." The great majority of these girls will not be likely to go through college, but since, in addition to the mental training, they have experience as Sunday-school teachers and visitors in the homes of the women, they will be able to realize the aim of the school, which is to fit them for Christian service among the women and children of their own race wherever they may live after leaving school. It numbers eighty.

The aim of the college is stated by Miss Newton: "If we can hold our young people, giving them what they seek and at the same time cultivating more deeply the spiritual life, we shall have strong, intelligent Christians, ready for the places where they are needed in the new China." The college motto is, "Fit yourselves into the mind of God." Its present enrollment is twenty-four. The girls' proficiency in certain studies demonstrates the capability of the Chinese mind to grasp the reasons of things, in spite of the time-honored custom of simply memorizing words.

There was one graduate in the medical class of the Foochow Woman's Hospital in 1902, making the tenth in all. She remains as assistant. The hospital was kept open during the summer with a few patients under the care of the assistant, and filled soon after the physician's return in the fall. The hospital clinics have far outgrown their quarters. The evangelistic work has been continued, but it is difficult for these ignorant patients to think of aught but their physical sufferings. Some ladies from well-to-do or official families have bought New Testaments to take home with them.

It is observable in the School for Women that those coming from the station-classes accomplish much more in their three years' course than those who must first learn to read. The development of the women is most interesting. The graduates often become teachers in the station-classes. Thus the work becomes interdependent.

The contract for the Memorial building at Diong Loh has been given out, and the building is promised to be ready by September next.

The third annual meeting of the Pagoda Anchorage Station brought together women from Diong Loh and Lower Min districts, pastors’ and preachers’ wives, station-class teachers and Bible-women—a goodly company, with bright intelligent faces, Christian character stamped upon them. The interesting talks which many gave were surprising, and a spirit of consecration pervaded the whole meeting.

“I am just trying to do my duty every day to the extent of my ability,” said Spring-Gold, the station-teacher at a fishing-village under the care of Mrs. Hubbard, who says of her: “Dear, faithful little woman!
Truly an earnest home-missionary, albeit the daughter of an ignorant fisherman and a heathen mother.”

INDIA.

BOMBAY.—Twenty-nine boys and girls from the schools were received into the membership of the First Church on August 9th. On that occasion Rev. E. S.
Hume preached to a congregation which equaled the capacity of the church. The corner-stone of the new church building was laid the Wednesday following.

Bowker Hall, where three hundred girls live in accommodations for one hundred, is watched over by Mrs.
Elizabeth Hume Hunsberger while Mrs. Hume is in America. At Christmas-time the funds were too low to permit gifts to the children. Great was the delight therefore on receiving money for this purpose from English ladies, so that all were made happy. Mrs. Hunsberger thus concludes the sweetly pathetic story of "The Death of the Little Mother:" "The fragrance of such a life is left as a heritage from the famine." Write to Miss Dickerman of the Bureau of Information for the story, then read, and inhale its fragrance.

The various classes which come under the medical missionary’s influence are shown in Dr. Karmarkar’s practice the past year, when of the 7,403 cases treated, there were Hindoos, 738; Mohammedans, 194; Parsees, 262; Jews, 49; Eurasians, 54; Native Christians, 6,111. This is the eighth year of the plague in Bombay. In the boys’ orphanage, and school for the blind, there has been one case each. Both were cured. Dr. Karmarkar reports her Bible-women as working faithfully. She finds many opportunities to speak for Christ in her daily work and the women listen eagerly, but it is hard for them to come out openly from their homes and surroundings. Lady Lamington, wife of the Governor, has shown a kindly interest in Dr. Karmarkar’s work.

Ahmednagar.—In compliance with a government requirement, the Ahmednagar schools have introduced the Kindergarten system. It is safe to take the government inspector’s opinion of the schools. He pronounced a school of low caste Hindu girls, under Malanbai, the second best in the city up to that time. Of one of the village schools he wrote: “I am quite pleased to note that the teacher has taken a great deal of care in instructing the children after the Kindergarten system. This is the first school [including mostly government schools] that I found in excellent order on my tour.” Dr. Hume says: “Some schools are excellent both as intellectual, social and spiritual instruments. All are helpful. In some places the teachers and pupils accepted anti-plague inoculation and suffered very little. One conspicuous service from some of these mission schools to the community was their promoting anti-plague inoculation and keeping down a panic.”

The Girls’ Boarding School welcomed Miss Emily Bissell joyously. It is probable that she will resume charge of it. The plague was bad in the villages in the fall, so that the holiday in October was only of a week’s duration, and the girls were kept at the school. They have had very little sickness, which is a great cause of thankfulness.

The new Hospital is a fine, massive, two-story stone building with generous verandahs. The plans for its equipment move slowly but surely. “Conditions being different from those in America, ideas have to be re-adjusted,” says Dr. Ruth Hume. She plans to have the nurses’ garments of native cloth—white with a band of green—woven by the orphans of the Ahmednagar Industrial department. She gives much time to the study of Marathi, but has regular hours for seeing patients and visiting cases.

Dr. Beals is at the Dispensary every day. A service is held before the medical work is begun. The Bible-woman is always there to talk to the women.

The Bible-women under Mrs. Bissell have been compelled to move about much the past year to escape the plague, yet everywhere there are many who need the comfort they can give, and they do not forget that their work is to preach Christ wherever they may be. When possible the classes have been maintained.

Mr. Churchill, who has invented a loom, the output of which is three times that of the native loom, and which is made by orphan carpenters, writes: "Our object is to teach the orphans to make articles which can be sold on the ground to the people themselves. Work and study must go together." The industrial work for children in the Marathi mission varies slightly in different places, but its object universally is "to teach an honorable trade which will enable both boys and girls to make a living."

Wai—This mission station is "manned by women," Miss Gordon and Mrs. Harding, who are eagerly awaiting the return of Mrs. Sibley. They have the immediate responsibility for all the work of the mission, looking after the work and pay of fifteen catechists and teachers, and two Bible-women, bearing in their hearts the Christian community of one hundred souls, and carrying the burden of ninety thousand others for whom they have been entrusted with the Bread of Life.

The Station-school has seventy-two pupils, mostly orphans, and some outside Hindu children. There are also three schools in different sections of Wai for Hindu girls, where they are kept in greater seclusion and accompanied to and from school by Hindu women employed for the purpose. The village schools are a contrast to the others. Held in barns or less desirable places, they yet are sometimes the means of opening the village to the truth.

Wai is called a rocky field because it is a stronghold of Brahminism. The sisters, Ashimabai and Anubai, Bible-women, are doing a work that begins to tell. Ashimabai, whom Miss Gordon calls her "right hand helper," is especially gifted. She is also matron of the Boys' Boarding School, having much influence there.

The new pastor of the Wai church was to be ordained April 1st.
Notwithstanding the pain of partings, Mrs. Sibley is filled with a deep, sacred gladness at returning to India. She sailed April 27th.

Sholapur.—The Kindergarten is mostly made up of famine orphans, although some come from the city. The average attendance is about seventy; the children are bright and responsive, and the work encouraging.

Sirur.—One who has been a Bible-woman in Sirur for thirty years testifies: "The people listen well these days. They used to treat us contemptuously, and hoot at us, but their hearts have pricked them, and now they love to listen." "What has given you special cause for happiness the past year?" was asked another. "Several have become Christians," she said.

Madura.—Capron Hall was formally opened on December 15, 1903. It was then estimated that the work of actual completion would require two days. Instead, eighteen were taken which postponed the opening of the school until January 16, 1904. They find the building very pleasant and airy, separate class-rooms and more dormitory space being appreciated. A little away from the crowd of the city the air seems laden with smoke and dust. There are 235 boarding pupils. A normal class soon goes out, but others will enter.

Dr. Parker returned to her work in the hospital in September. During her absence Dr. Young rendered efficient service, making the religious life of the hospital an object of special care. Four young women were received during the year to be trained as nurses and one for training as a compounder.

The work done by the Bible-women has been educational, evangelistic and pastoral. See one of these women, elderly, unattractive and seemingly dull, yet among her pupils are two beautiful Brahmin women who recently recited sixty passages from the Bible to Miss Swift.

JAPAN.

On November 21st Miss Judson wrote: "Since early in September, two weeks and a half is the longest stay I have made in any one place." In another connection she previously said, "With thoughts of the home and love above, I comfort myself for the homelessness of my life on earth." Is it strange? In her self-forgetting love she so rarely reveals herself that this comes as a surprise. She gave us another surprise in making known that for thirteen years she has supported—save for the salary of one helper furnished by the Board—her School for Poor Children at Matsuyama. Started in the house in which she was living, she bought ground, put up the buildings, supported the teacher-pupils, helped some girls and paid the running expenses of the school. All on one woman's salary! She wrote, "I must now repair the building, secure another teacher and provide for the work. May I look for some help from America?" It is one of God's beautiful providences that the New Haven Branch had in its treasury money—a special gift from Mrs. Henry Farnam—which could be used to meet this need. On receiving word that the necessary funds would be sent her, Miss Judson says: "I have marked the date in my Bible as a day to be observed with prayer and thanksgiving all my life." That the school is industrial and partly self-supporting is but another tribute to her genius. Each year it is graduating Christian boys and girls who otherwise would be wholly without Christian instruction. From it one girl has gone out as a missionary helper this year, the first, it is hoped, of multitudes.

Of one tour she wrote, "There were so many special blessings from the Lord on this trip that I do not know what to write about." It took her among towns where audiences of 1,500 attended her magic-lantern lectures, to mountain villages, deemed important points, and to small towns where are a few native Christian workers.

Five young men receiving Christian baptism is one year's fruition of a Bible-class for which she has worked and prayed for years. "For this," she says, "I am filled with gratitude," and when a Japanese helper in Saijo wrote of the conversion of some with whom she had personally worked she adds, "My cup runneth over." She left Japan February 21st, en route for America.

The Kindergartens in Kyoto and Maebashi report a prosperous year in the work for the little ones and in that for the mothers. Those engaged in this work are enthusiastic over the opportunities which it gives for access to the homes of the parents.

TURKEY.

EUROPEAN TURKEY.

Monastir.—Mrs. Bond describes last summer as one of "hopes and fears and terrible happenings," such as proved a great strain on the strength of the missionaries. This has been followed by the relief work with its imperative demands. The suffering has been great, many communities having had pitifully scant supplies to meet the winter. Village refugees in Monastir, at first afraid of the missionaries, have had their fears dispelled by the loving help given them, and women, not of the church, many being from the upper class, have become interested and join in the work of helping their own people. All such opportunities are improved to exert a Christian influence.

Touring has been impossible, yet Mrs. Bond's faith holds strong, and she says: "I can look up and see our dear Father's loving hand in it all, preparing the way for the coming of His kingdom in a broader and fuller way than ever before. In His own time and way He will bring order out of all this turmoil and His word have free course and be glorified."

WESTERN TURKEY.

CONSTANTINOPLE.—The American College for Girls showed a gain in numbers as a result of the lowered price of tuition. The character of the student body was most significant, evidencing the constituency of the college to be of the thoughtful, intelligent part of the community. There were girls of high rank and social influence, besides a large element made up of earnest, thoughtful girls of less position who are looking forward to being teachers. There have been two Home School granddaughters, dear girls, who show the effect of their mother's own training. The spirit of the college in its social and religious life has been very good. This we glean from Miss Fensham's letter. From the President's report we learn that Miss Fensham's return and resumption of her position as Dean and Professor of Biblical Literature has been an important factor in the year's work. "Her presence in the college has been felt for good in every department of college work."
An advance worthy of note in the Gedik Pasha work has been the foundation of an advisory committee of prominent Protestant natives, thus giving the people a feeling of responsibility for it. The native preacher, a Yale graduate, is meeting with great success and all the work is most promising.

Cesarea.—Last year a member of Miss Burrage’s Kindergarten training-class at Cesarea—this year the teacher of the Talas Kindergarten with Miss Burrage’s help two or three days in the week, is the record of a former pupil of the Girls’ School at Cesarea. It shows us, as no other way could so well, what the schools accomplish. In their influence upon life, encouraging change is noticed among the little ones and many older ones are being brought into close communion with Christ.

Smyrna.—Enforcement of the rule that no child above seven should remain in the Kindergarten has lessened the numbers in the Huntington Kindergarten, which has continued under the management of the Collegiate Institute.

The need of a training-class in the interior, of which the girls from the poorer cities and villages might take advantage, led to the temporary transfer of Miss Halsey to Sivas. Before leaving Smyrna she planned the year’s Kindergarten work there with a native teacher who could carry it on. At Sivas she has had a Kindergarten numbering fifty-five and a training-class of eight, and finds them very appreciative of all teaching.

Marsovan.—Miss Willard, principal of the Girls’ School, in asking for a teacher to take the place of Miss Riggs, who is soon to marry, writes: “She will come into a position of leadership among girls who are alive to every influence which touches them, and who are able to respond in a large degree to the best that we can bring them. The leadership is in things spiritual, intellectual and social."

The school has been smaller this year than last. There has been great distress in the city. The failure of the grape crop, the injury to the wheat by rains, the introduction of European goods which have quite supplanted native cloth thus throwing weavers out of work, have combined to depress business and cause sickness and suffering. An unusual number of day-scholars have been sickly and dropped out of school. Others have found it difficult to get money for tuition. Of the sixty boarding pupils a number are part pay students but hopeful. A quiet but sure work of the Holy Spirit has been manifest.

EASTERN TURKEY.

HARPOOT.—The demand for teachers educated at the Girls' Department of Euphrates College far exceeds the supply. Several of the orphans have done successful work in the outside schools and others will soon go out to teach. The schools have been crowded. After but two years in the new building it has been necessary to put in more desks and the standard of scholarship has been constantly raised.

Our new missionary, Miss Bertha Wilson, reached Harpoot November 10th, bringing, Miss Barnum says, "helpful methods and new life and enthusiasm." As the college girls understand English she has two classes with them, a class of thirty-seven little girls who are beginning English, and has charge of the Primary Sunday-school class.

The earnestness and determination which the Armenian girls bring to their studies impress Miss Wilson as very encouraging. Studies like mathematics requiring close reasoning are difficult for them, but when dependence rests mostly upon memory, she thinks the girls would rank well even in the best American schools. Reminded that forty years ago it was considered a disgrace for an Armenian woman to know how to read, she is amazed at the advance which has been made. Several girls, early in the year, decided for Christ and their changed lives evidence the genuineness of their conversion.

VAN.—Another new missionary is Miss Susan Norton, who reached Van November 6th, and soon began to assist in the Kindergarten while studying Armenian. She naturally belongs to us, being a Connecticut girl, educated at Northfield, Mass.

"This blessed orphanage," is what a boy calls the Van orphanage, in which, he says, "Glory to our sublime Lord, here now I am learning."

BITLIS.—The school routine goes on well and a quickening in the divine life of the pupils has been manifest.

CENTRAL TURKEY.

ADANA.—Mrs. Christie, of Tarsus, whose daughter is a pupil of the Adana school, observes its pleasant and successful life. Of Miss Borel, she says, "I have never known a more faithful, conscientious and efficient teacher anywhere."

The last graduating class numbered five, all Christians and anxious to work for Christ.

The mountain villages send many girls to the school and would send more did their means permit. Miss Lawrence speaks of one village where the people are hungry for the Gospel and for education. . There is a certain "mountain strength and simplicity" about them which makes them very interesting.

AINTAB.—There has been a quiet work of the Holy Spirit resulting in definite conversions, at the hospital. A new venture was the employment of a Bible-woman who works in the wards and waiting-room. She is full of joy over the way men, as well as women, listen to her. The Sunday evening service has grown in a marvelous way, the audience being mostly young men, while to the Thursday evening meeting for young men held at the home of Dr. Hamilton and Miss Trowbridge, there come each week thirty or forty. These are the tempted, the weak and the fallen, and in their hearts the truth seems working.

"We could write pages and pages about this work among young men," says Miss Trowbridge. She sends as a message to the young people of our Endeavor societies, the passage in II Samuel 15:15. "And the king's servants said unto the king, Behold thy servants are ready to do whatsoever my lord the king shall appoint;" and commends to them the motto of the nurses' guild to which she belonged in Bellevue Hospital —"Ready, aye, ready." Think of the voices of all our young Christians, when the king appoints "Go ye," responding in unison, "Ready, aye, ready!" Yet more; let the older men and women of our four counties but swell the chorus, and its music would reach to the tired workers across the seas, "giving power to the faint," and to them that have "no might" increasing strength. Would it not also reach to the "great white throne" and the King who sitteth thereupon?

"Ready, aye, ready."

For the Secretaries,

SARAH A. DANFORTH.
