Representatives of Executive Committee.
ANNUAL MEETING.

The New Haven Branch of the Woman’s Board of Missions held its Fifty-second Annual Meeting on Tuesday, May 8th, 1923, in Center Church, preceded by a short prayer service in the United Church Parish House, led by Mrs. Erastus Blakeslee.

The Meeting was called to order by Miss Prudden, at 10 o’clock, who read the Scripture lesson, using the Parable of the Talents as being adapted to the topic for the day “Investments,” and followed with prayer.

“Our Home Deposits” and their returns were shown by the Home Secretary, Mrs. Fairchild, who spoke of the changes in officers and of Miss Prudden’s fifteen years of loyal, devoted service.

Miss Sterling, Secretary for Young People’s Work, told of all that has been accomplished by the children and young people through the year; of new plans successfully tried out, and of the splendid Rally of the evening before with 165 present.

The Treasurer’s report was in printed form in the hands of the audience, and it was voted to accept it as printed. Miss Woolsey spoke of the extraordinary total, never before approached, as being made possible through the splendid legacy from Miss Mary E. Scranton, amounting to $55,000, and told of some of the uses to which this large sum will be put.

Mrs. Day, as chairman of a committee appointed at the officers’ meeting to discuss the matter of a budget for Branch expenses, presented to the meeting three resolutions from the committee. Resolved: 1st, That the Executive Committee of the New Haven Branch, at the beginning of each year, shall adopt a business-like budget for current expenses, based upon estimates furnished by the different officers, committees, or departments incurring expense during the year.

2d. That the total of this budget be not more than 4% of current receipts counting on apportionment, and any percentage within this limit taken from these receipts shall be equally reckoned as counting on apportionment.

3d. That the offerings at Branch meetings be applied, not to Branch expenses, but to definite interests of the Woman’s Board of Missions.

Mrs. Day moved the adoption of these resolutions and it was voted to adopt them as read.

The three Correspondents with the field brought us glimpses of our foreign dividends on our investments described by the Home Department—Mrs. Browning reporting for India and Japan, Mrs. Dickerman for Turkey, and Mrs. Prudden for China, Mexico and Africa.

As a prayer of gratitude for what we as a Branch have been able to do, the audience joined with the choir in two verses of the hymn “‘Come, Thou Almighty King.’”

Miss Alice M. Kyle, Editorial Secretary of the W. B. M., told us of the many departments of our “‘Boston Clearing House’” who will honor any drafts we may make on them for general information on Missionary Education, etc.

“‘Did Smyrna Investments Pay?’” was the subject of the address of Miss Rosa Yeranian, recently of Smyrna, now a student at Mt. Holyoke College and for fifteen years a student and teacher in the American Collegiate Institute of Smyrna. The young woman, who so bravely faces the future after living through the disaster in her native land, prays that nothing in this country will prevent her going back to work for Smyrna. If it should, the glorious opportunities she is having here would better not have been given her if she cannot use them for the help of her own stricken land.
The list of delegates to the Annual Meeting of the Woman's Board in Wellesley next November, was presented. It was voted to accept this list as read.

The report of the Nominating Committee was given by Mrs. Stevens, chairman. It was voted to accept the report of the Nominating Committee. Miss Edith Woolsey was elected as the new President of the Branch and Mrs. Lansing Lewis, Treasurer. The rest of the officers were elected collectively.

Mrs. Horace Day offered a Prayer of Thanksgiving for the year's work and our retiring President, who has led us through these years, and for all the newly elected officers.

The morning session closed with the singing of the hymn "O, Master, let us walk with Thee."

Luncheon was served in both Church Houses to 392 guests.

Following luncheon, a missionary play "Two Masters" was given in Center Church House and then the afternoon session began in the Church with the singing of the hymn, "Christ for the World we Sing," followed by a prayer in unison, "That we may have the 'Mind of Christ.'"

On motion made and duly seconded, it was voted that the chair appoint a Nominating Committee for next year.

The President then introduced Miss Agnes Inglis, Volunteer Assistant, at Bombay, India, who told of our investments in Bombay, also describing the present problem to be met in tactfully helping the Christian community there, which was wishing to be quite independent.

Rev. John E. Merrill was the next speaker, his subject being: "Investments in Turkey." He gave under the heads of Necessity, Prudence, Loyalty and Conscientious Scruples, reasons why we should not continue our work and under the same heads why we should continue.
Before the offertory it was voted that the offering be given for the new building at the Ahmednagar Training School.

After singing "O Lord of Heaven and Earth and Sea," the Rev. Lucius C. Porter, Dean of Peking University, China, told of our "Dividends in China," citing as "dividends" individual natives, especially women who had been developed to great usefulness through the devotion and gifts of American women. Native Christians show a new independence and are no longer in tutelage to their foreign associates. He predicted they would develop a vital and sincere form of Christian faith which would be reflected upon the older countries, to the latter's advantage, with a deeper understanding of Christian truth.

After singing "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," the Rev. Richard H. Clapp offered prayer followed by the Benediction.

The meeting then adjourned.

Alice C. S. Sheldon,
Secretary.
HOME REPORT.

SENIOR DEPARTMENT.

How the weeks and months have hurried us forward until we have arrived at our fifty-second anniversary day and the hour when we take account of purpose and effort and result! Not all our anticipated dividends are returned but some of them are, and with them in hand our courage is reinforced and we make them the basis of further endeavor.

In studying the tabulated statement of Branch statistics given by the Woman's Board, it is interesting to learn our relative standing. The size of territory covered, the number and size of churches and the membership of societies all must be considered. In point of returns, the New Haven Branch holds third place, being outranked by New York Branch with its large territory and great cities, New York and Brooklyn, and by Suffolk Branch, which embraces greater Boston, and is the heart of the system.

The contributions for regular work are not as much as last year, which was the greatest advance we have made. It was in response to a special appeal of the Woman's Board. Averaging these two years and the coming year, we hope and expect to mark a positive advance.

The outstanding event in the treasury is the legacy of Miss Mary E. Scranton amounting to nearly $55,000.

The changes in our Board of officers are mentioned with deep feeling. Her pen name made us acquainted with Grace Duffield Goodwin, in current literature. When she moved into our territory, her husband being called to the pastorate of Litchfield Church, we hastened to secure her for the vacant office of vice-president of Litchfield County. She has graciously served four years, but resigned in December on account of continued ill-health. Mrs. Irving E. Alcott of Torrington is welcomed as her successor. Miss Marion Sumner Betts, an active member of the Mission Circle of Park Street Church, Bridgeport, was elected vice-president of Fairfield County in 1919. She repeats her resignation of last year, which was not accepted, as she is still handicapped by ill-health. We owe her our thanks for her conscientious, painstaking service of four faithful years. Miss Prudden has been our beloved president and leader for fifteen years. For a long time she has felt the need of relief from responsibility and care, but has graciously yielded to the importunity of her associates, that she remain. In releasing her from the office we rejoice that we do not lose her from our fellowship and work. She retires with well-won laurels and with the admiration and devotion of the entire membership of our Branch. We all love and honor her and have felt it to be a great inspiration to be so closely associated with her. To her successor upon whom will fall the burden of leadership we give the glad hand of welcome. These daughters of two of our great charter members constitute our bank of strength.

Our missionaries have been as generous of their time in letter-writing as possible, and our corresponding secretaries have kept us in touch with the work to which we stand pledged, aided by our secretaries of the Bureau of Information. Have we ever thought how greatly we are indebted to our comrades in service, varied as the service is, whether letter, leaflets or bulletins? We like to express our mutual thanks as we go on being mutually engaged in the great enterprise to which we have set our hands and hearts.

We speak the name Minnie L. Sibley with love and sorrow; with love and gladness that she was ours to serve and be served, with sorrow and mourning for our loss. It was her last service to give her inspiring presence and words to us and to one and another of our societies.
We cannot fail to record here and now the pleasure it has been to have our very own two young missionaries, Miss Wilcox and Miss Carter, in our midst while on their first furlough. We were greatly cheered and helped by their presence and hope by a kind of reflex action they have felt a like cheer on returning to their work.

A small folder of six pages containing pictures of our 15 missionaries was issued by the Branch in the summer. In this connection it comes to mind that Dr. Robert A. Hume is as near being one of our missionaries as can be and not be! During the year, he arrived at an age when his friends thought it worth while to celebrate his birthday by at least a congratulatory letter. He received several hundred letters and cards. In acknowledging our letters to our president he characterized us as the "Superlatively fine New Haven Branch." This prompts us to ask: Is it not another reason for us to keep our standard high, that we may not disappoint our friends in the Orient?

We have held 16 executive meetings and one public meeting during the year. These "County Meetings" are a feature of our Branch. They are like a home-coming with the family feeling uppermost. This year's getting-together in each case was exceptionally pleasant and profitable. The meetings in September were at Middletown South, and West Haven; in October at Sound Beach and Norfolk. Mrs. Warner, Mrs. Otis Cary, our own missionaries Miss Wilcox and Miss Carter, our own president and treasurer were scheduled as the inspirational speakers. The West Haven Society produced a missionary play which was a great attraction and was effective in purpose. The meetings next fall will be at Wilton, at Watertown, at Clinton, and at Meriden First.

We depend upon our societies, Senior and Junior, for our dividends. Any attempt to give this in concrete form is vain. The surmounting of difficulties in the work, the heroic battling with discouragement, the sturdy plodding along wellworn paths of effort have accomplished results undreamed of by the individual worker.

The answers that have come in response to letters have afforded more personal pleasure than the writer could possibly anticipate or realize. It is gratifying to know that the officers of societies whose names are as household words are still investing life and service where the dividends are sure. We are grateful too for the acquaintance of new officers where the old friends have slipped away. We welcome to our fellowship the society at Milton which is started under the most favorable auspices with the leadership of Miss Katherine R. Crowell. You recognize the name as the writer of stories for young people. Miss Crowell took up her residence in Milton last summer and entered at once into the interest of the church life.

Madison, Washington, Meriden Center and Middletown First have celebrated this last year their 50th anniversary. Others are looking forward to the event. Thomaston will mark the occasion by entertaining the Litchfield County meeting.

To give an adequate view of our individual societies would need an hour by itself. Their letters inform us that 75% have regular meetings, 50% use the study-book as basis of their programs, about 50% have formed associations or leagues or unions or are at work jointly with the Ladies' Aid Society. None is disheartened by the apportionment, but the very smallest society will seek to come as near the goal as is possible. They have taken up bravely the matter of the new Missionary Herald, and in some cases keep the same number of subscribers as of Life and Light or exceed that number.

Our fellowship with our State Branches is as close as always, and unless impossible we respond to an invitation to an annual meeting by sending a representative. We make our return invitation most friendly and cordial and hope some of these invited guests are with us to-day. It will interest you to know that the Hartford Branch is holding its semi-annual meeting at this hour.

The perfecting of the lists of Life Members was lately inaugurated in the Woman's Board, and Miss Twining took up the task for our Branch. It was brought up to date under her effort and now Mrs. Cutting has carried it forward. We learn that in our Branch there are 1,475 life members, and in New Haven alone, 140.

In this rapid review we have tried to present the methods by which our deposits of the best things have appreciated. We can but notice the safe returns to the comparatively few who are now investing either in money or service or both in this missionary enterprise. A vast field still untouched calls loudly and insistently to the many who as yet fail to grasp offers of so rewarding an investment.

"The easy roads are crowded;
   And the level roads are jammed;
The pleasant little rivers
   With the drifting folks are crammed.
But off yonder where it's rocky,
   Where you get a better view,
You will find the ranks are thinning
   And the travelers are few.

"When the going's smooth and pleasant
   You will always find the throng,
For the many, more's the pity,
   Seem to like to drift along.
But the steeps that call for courage
   And the task that's hard to do
In the end results in glory
   For the never wavering few."

Thera W. Fairfield,
Home Secretary.
HOME REPORT.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEPARTMENT.

Home Deposits! The Young People! What interest are they receiving? What interest are they paying? Everybody wants the best of everything for the children, and if a child is wayward great patience must be shown to help him learn the right! What Patience is the Mother Missionary Auxiliary showing with its backward child—The Young People's Missionary Work? What Pride and Joys is the other Mother Auxiliary showing with its enthusiastic progressive Young People's interest and active work! Let us congratulate those who have done much this year, and urge them on to still greater effort, and let us help and encourage those who are weak and let them feel our sympathy and interest, which will enable them to gain renewed enthusiasm and activity.

The Rainbow Circle of Branford won the Branch contest and the reward of a trip to Aloha Camp, Northfield, this summer, and Miss Emily Shepardson of Middlebury won the individual contest and received the same reward. The Branch is very glad to have these two special representatives at Northfield.

A very successful Girls' rally was held on May 7th at Dwight Place Church, New Haven, with 165 girls attending, representing 18 different churches.

The Young People's Department has greatly appreciated having Miss Minnie Carter and Miss Katie Wilcox speak to many of the Societies. One group of girls, who have given regularly towards the salary of Mrs. Sibley, this year gave $30 to support an orphan in her memory. In several places short time children's units have been held for handwork and missionary instruction, and have proved very successful. The members of one Society dress in Indian costume at each meeting, and so carry out the real spirit of India. Another group made 1800 surgical dressings for the Madura hospital. Some have used self-denial mite boxes during Lent, and another Society has an envelope for each month and make their gifts systematically.

If you have tried any new investments of time, of method or program this year, let the Young People’s Department hear about them for they may be of real help to some other group.

Think—Work—and Pray more this year for the children and the Young People, for little by little the interest is growing, the Home deposits of knowledge are increasing, and the dividends of service are more far reaching.

Ethel R. Sterling,
Young People’s Secretary.

CHINA.

Peking. We have only to read the letters that come from China to realize the great awakening that is spreading through the country. Our missionary, Miss Andrews, in a recent letter recalls some of these changes. She says, "A few years ago the people in general did not care anything about the government. If they and their families had enough to eat and wear they were satisfied, but times have changed. There are demonstrations on the part of business men and students showing that they are awake to their country's needs and mean to have a share in making things come to pass. We thank God and take courage. When I first came to China we heard, 'Why should a girl learn to read? Of what use will it be?' Now young women are leading meetings, giving lectures and doing all sorts of worth while things. Women are surely finding their place in China."

Although Miss Andrews is in her eighty-third year, she rejoices that she is still able to teach the Bible in the Woman's College and Bible Woman's Training School. In addition she has a prayer service with a class of Normal girls and a large class of women in Sunday School. Many go to her room seeking help, some with a desire for friendly intercourse or for prayer with her about those for whom their hearts are burdened. She begins each day with the thought that the Lord needs her in His plan for the universe and asks constantly for His Spirit’s guidance that she may be able to meet the needs of each one whom He sends her. Is not this the secret why her invested life has brought such large returns?

The great country fields of the Peking and Tunghsien Station are now under one management for evangelistic work. While the unsettled condition of the country often made long trips unwise, it has also brought opportunities. Frightened women and children have sought church buildings as places of refuge, and a unique opportunity came for work with the wives of the officers when the Christian army was stationed at Tunghsien.

Preaching Bands, consisting of one foreigner and several native women, are sent to country districts: A Bible woman prepares the way for them and follows up the work after they leave. Over eight hundred homes have been visited by these Bible women.

Esther Moody, the young missionary who went to China last fall, describes one of these trips with Mrs. Stelle. She tells of boarding the train at Peking “with beds, mattresses and oceans of bedding”; the ride in the “two wheeled, no spring, canvas-top mule carts, each with bedding and driver filling a cart”; eating Chinese food with Chinese workers from Saturday night until Monday morning and calling in the homes on Sunday afternoon. She says, “Before I came out here I had a picture of a Bible woman going around with a Bible under her arm, beating everybody into being Christians. I have discarded that idea. I wish you could see what it means to these shut-in women who almost never get out on the streets, to have a lovely woman, such as these Bible women are, come into their homes.”

An interesting event of the trip was an invitation to a Chinese Feast. “There were twenty different dishes on the table," she says, "when we sat down and they brought in between twenty-five and thirty dishes more, each served as a separate course. There was sea weed, pig's stomach and everything you could not think of. Some of the chicken effects were delicious. Perhaps the most wonderful thing is that I am alive." The crowds who came to the evening tent meeting to see the stereopticon pictures, made her realize what a wonderful opportunity the workers will have in that village.

The work in the Tunghsien hospital is expanding year by year. Many girls from the school are now voluntarily going to the hospital when previously they were ready to leave school rather than endure the painful curative measures for trachoma. Several opium cases came to get free from the dreadful appetite. The following story taken from the report makes us realize why the Doctor is called "a wonder worker." "A little Mohammedan girl was brought by her shame-faced but desperate parents. For eleven years they had kept her concealed in their backmost court so even their neighbors should not know of the disgrace. She not only had a hare lip, but the jawbone was cleft also and a part of the bone protruded near an eye tooth. She was the age when a normal girl could marry, but there was no hope of anyone's wanting her, so they brought her to the hospital to see what could be done. Dr. Love and Dr. Richards of Boston, who was visiting just then, performed the operation that pushed in the protruding bone, healed the cleft jaw and the cleft lip and left the mouth normal-looking with only a scar in the lip to show that she had 'met with any accident.' The parents were delighted and the joy of the child herself, to be no longer an eye-sore and a disgrace, no longer a prisoner secreted in a dingy little hole, can better be imagined than told. She went home thanking Jesus for the wonderful change.''

The investment of a foreign nurse in this hospital is greatly needed to take general supervision of the hospital and the nursing.

Miss Carolyn Sewall, the Children's Missionary at Tientsin, combines the inspection of country schools with evangelistic work for women in the country and city. She was very happy when she opened the boxes from Boston to find that they contained gifts enough for the children in the country schools as well as for those in the city. Nearly five hundred children were remembered at Christmas, and a thousand more have picture postals on their walls as a result of those boxes. The girls in the Look-up-to-the mountain school wished to do something for others. As the result of an entertainment which they gave, they provided peanuts and candy for the five hundred and fifty children in the Sunday School and a dinner for a hundred and thirty-five very poor children. They have already learned the blessing of giving as well as receiving.

Miss Mary McClure, the Christian Endeavor missionary of Fenchow, tells of a trip of eight days towards the setting sun on a mule's back, during which they crossed twenty mountain divides and had an exciting time crossing the Yellow River as the water was very high. The object of the trip was to hold station classes in places she had visited the previous spring. It was not until they had had an exciting time with the bandits who were constantly making life miserable for the poor defenceless people that they were able to settle down to the first class. Here twelve women and four little girls lived with them for twelve days and went to school. She says, "This was the first opportunity they had ever had to learn. There are no schools for girls and few for boys in all this west road territory which in area is four times larger than the state of Massachusetts."

"At the closing meeting to which their friends and relatives were invited, they sang five hymns they had learned, read easily and well in their phonetic primer, repeated the ten commandments, three Bible stories and the Lord’s Prayer.”

She asks, “Do you think you could learn more in twelve days?”

One of the main reasons why there are no girls’ schools in Shensi, since the people begin to desire them, is because there are no teachers. Miss McClure is constantly looking for girls ten or eleven years of age to be trained, but is meeting all sorts of obstacles such as superstition, poverty and the early engagement of the girls. Three girls were found to enter the Fenchow school, and she hopes this will be the beginning of opening up this great territory that in time will not only “be transformed by the Light of the Gospel, but enlightened by the torch of learning.”

The Abbie B. Child Memorial school at Diongloho has sadly needed increased accommodations. The purchase of a house as a residence for the lady missionaries has somewhat relieved the situation, but it is hoped that funds will soon be available to provide a modern dormitory for two hundred girls.

We are told that “girls who have gone out from this school have taken their places in the higher schools in Foochow, Peking and Manila and are among our fine investments in China. Three are teachers at Wen Shan; one is carrying the responsibility of the Davis Memorial Kindergarten at Foochow; one is at Yenching College.”

The girls in the Wen Shan school are taught principles of democracy and individual self-control, a splendid preparation for life when there is so much unrest. These girls realize their responsibility to pass on the blessings which have come to them as shown in a list of their activities. “They teach in eight Sunday Schools; they act as organists in five churches; they supervise a playground for children; and during vacation teach in half-day schools.” As members of the "Time Investment Club” they seek in every way to help women and children catch the high ideals which their devoted teachers have set before them. Surely the pupils in these Christian schools will be a force for good in these days of reconstruction in China.

Africa.

Mrs. Edwards celebrated her ninety-third birthday on July 8, 1922. As always, she is thinking and planning for the future of the work. In a letter written December 1st she says, “The Zulu women for many years will be obliged to till the ground and I have long wished that we could have a teacher of Agriculture who would give the girls not only the theory, but the practical knowledge of the subject. Since 1869 not a year has passed without our planting something on the grounds.” The abundance of wood for fires, and even for building, as well as the fruit trees testify to the results of these efforts.

Mrs. Edwards’ account in the same letter of her trying experience at the Annual Meeting during her first furlough, should remind us that all missionaries do not find it easy to speak in public after being away from the country for some years and using another language. She says, “I was not accustomed to speak, and after saying, ‘my enthusiasm subsided after reaching the field,’—there was a blank—Mrs. Bowker whispered, ‘Tell about the girl who committed to memory,’ there was not an idea in my head. I had sense enough to sit down. After all these years comes a compensation for all the chagrin and shame for my failure to speak in public. Miss Carter met a grey-haired missionary from Mexico who told her that he was a boy at the time of that visit and I put it into his heart to be a missionary. The thrill compensated for all these years of unhappy recollections of that first and only Annual Meeting.”
Miss Carter reached Inanda, after her furlough, on February 16th. After being greeted by the girls with waving palm branches and songs in Zulu and English, she went in to see Mrs. Edwards who looked a little more worn but seemed as strong as the year before. Miss Carter was glad to get back to her class work and station Sunday School which Miss Brittenden had been caring for during her absence. She found one hundred and fourteen girls in the school.

The seven native teachers and the nurse are all old Inanda girls. Miss Clarke says of them, ‘They are a fine set of teachers, wide awake, thoroughly loyal to the school, interested deeply in the mental, social, and spiritual development of the girls. Some are born leaders and exercise an influence on the life of their people far beyond the bounds of the school.’

Surely the Inanda Seminary has been a dividend-paying investment.

The work in the New Haven Branch Industrial building has included classes in cooking, household management, garment making, dress making, laundry, basketry, vegetable gardening, and the care of poultry. The teachers hope to include upholstery in the third year work.

Miss Clarke longs to have the girls in the school so realize the saving and keeping power of Christ, that when they go home and meet ridicule and temptation they will remember that He is able to keep them from falling and will provide a way of escape.

Mexico.

Miss Margarita Wright, the principal of the Instituto Colon at Guadalajara, has had a busy year with the one hundred and twenty-five pupils. The vacancy caused by the marriage of Mrs. Barbara Howland Barber is to be filled by Miss Gladys Thompson who will graduate in June from Middlebury College. A member of the faculty says of her, "She has the spiritual nature, intellectual power, practical qualifications and consecration that go to the making of a successful missionary."

The death of Mrs. Campos, "the much loved and efficient housekeeper," Miss Wright says, "leaves an empty place that can never be filled. She is greatly missed as a teacher of the Domestic Science class, as mother to the little girls, as able manager of the boarding department and as a helpful counsellor to all who needed advice."

The little children go daily to the school library to look at the pictures in papers or books; the older ones seek stories, while the young people go to consult the reference books. The library serves not only the pupils but the families as the children ask to take the books home. We can understand its value when we remember that this is the only library in a city of 175,000 people and the only one in the state where free use of the books is allowed and the privilege of taking them home.

In every way the teachers have sought to make the Instituto Colon of greatest use to the community.

Czecho-Slovakia.

An unusual opportunity came the past year to our workers in the opening of some of the public schools for the teaching of religion. Some Romanists as well as Protestant children attended. "Near Prague eighty children of the Czecho-Slovak church received such instruction, and three hundred children in Eastern Bohemia. The Bible woman has carried her Gospels, Testaments and Scripture mottoes into a specially needed part of Bohemia and has gained entrance into many homes where she has taught the Bible.

It has been impossible with the small band of workers to keep up with the increasing opportunities in this young republic.
On the lonely, tropical island of Kusaie the Misses Baldwin have invested twenty-five years of service. Here they have lived and worked and sacrificed, refusing all salary from the Board, and only once during that period coming to the mainland. The dividends are large as shown in the lives of those who have attended the school. At the communion service in October, one hundred and fifty young people sat on the floor in front of the pulpit owing to the crowded condition of the church.

The longed-for printing press arrived at Christmas, but as the island was not a custom port, it was sent on to Jaluit, which necessitated anxious waiting lest it should not be returned safely. The last letter tells of its installation and the arrival of the paper from Japan, making possible the immediate beginning of printing the Bible which had been translated into the Kusaien language. Christian Endeavor topics, Bible Readings, and Sunday School lessons had been printed and sent out to the Marshall Islands, with the Scripture portions which are not yet in the Marshall Bible.

Far from the mainland this spot is a center of influence in the island world.

Miss Anna Fox writes, "We are growing this year and are busy and happy." The house is so full that she and her sister gathered all their possessions into a small kitchen and back porch. She asks anxiously when it will be possible to begin the new dormitory which the girls are praying for every day. The Bible School girls have charge of nine Sunday Schools this year, for the sake of the half-clad children who cannot be coaxed to the church.

"Caridad has thirty or more children under a mango tree near the river; Angelina holds her class under the cocoanut trees in the midst of a cluster of houses near the slaughter house,—lovely place!—but she has an interesting group of forty children and several adults. The seats are merely bamboo poles laid across stakes driven in the ground. These are anything but comfortable."

Two hundred and forty-four children are gathered in these groups.

The church service is held in a shack of which only a part can be rented. On one side they have the pleasure of smelling the dinner the Chinese merchant is cooking and hear the clip, clip of the barber's scissors in front. The people have pledged according to their ability, yet not enough for a modest building.

Miss Anna Fox's furlough is due next year, but she feels that she cannot come home unless a worker comes to take her place.

Is there not some one who would like to make a term investment in the Philippines?

Turkey.

Needless is it to discuss the political situation or possibilities in Turkey; to surmise what might or might not have been, if we or some other nation had done differently. This is a simple record of the lives of our missionaries and their work in that chaotic land; may it help you to see and to realize something of the conditions under which they carry on your work for the Master.

Aintab. Miss Trowbridge and Dr. Hamilton stayed in the city all through the heat and discomfort of last summer, while others of the force took their vacations. Dr. Hamilton cared for the hospital and industries, although when a boycott was put on all foreign and Armenian goods, work was increasingly difficult to provide. The people became more wretched and despairing; and the missionaries, powerless to help, could only pity and try to comfort, while their hearts "ached and ached." Under Miss Trow-bridge's direction, real evangelistic work went on, gospel meetings were held, and many rejoiced in finding Jesus Christ a real, living, personal Saviour.

In September these two 'David and Jonathan' friends started off for a well-earned holiday, on a long-desired trip through the Holy Land. Damascus, the Sea of Galilee, Capernaum, Nazareth, Jerusalem, Bethany, Jericho,—all the beloved and well-known names became realities, and "the Lord seemed very near" as they followed in His footsteps.

Returning to Aintab early in November, they found confusion and terror reigning supreme. "Permission" had been given by the Government for all native Christians, Greek and Armenian, to leave the country. Disorder prevailed,—homes and property and even many lives were lost. An onlooker wrote of this time, "If anyone doubts the reality of Satan, he has only to come out here and see and hear what we witness."

Dr. Shepard asked and received the favor of retaining helpers and servants necessary for the Compound, and about one hundred were thus cared for. The others had to go, and the exodus was distressing beyond words, an unusual number of heavy rainstorms adding to the misery. The last Sunday before leaving, a very beautiful and touching service was held. "Dr. Hamilton spoke to the people in the morning, and Dr. Shepard in the afternoon; and then for twenty minutes, one after another poured out their hearts. Everybody was quiet and self-controlled, and to hear them pray for their enemies was simply beautiful. Many went out to the unknown future with smiling faces and great peace in their hearts, and with nothing but pity for those who had taken their all."

Ebrouhi, a faithful, earnest Bible-woman, was sent out on the road with a feeble old mother. The mother soon died, Ebrouhi's small possessions were torn from her, and her fate is unknown. For our comfort came these words, "The overwhelming is not for us alone. We know how hard it is for you who sit at the helm. The little boat seems to be sinking, but the Master is in the boat, and He knows the end as well as the beginning."

Miss Norton had opened the school in September with fifty-four girls, the church schools had opened, also the preparatory department of the college, and the hospital was well patronized. But now the city schools were closed by the Government, the Christians began to move out, no girls were left for the Seminary, and day by day the college preparatory department diminished.

For a time, even the doctors were unemployed, but in January the work along medical lines increased by leaps and bounds, both in hospital wards and clinics and in homes outside. The native chaplain left, and Miss Trowbridge has taken up many of his duties. She gives much time to the wards and clinics,—talking, reading and singing. A Sunday-school is held for the thirty children on the Compound, and she has the class of small boys, a new experience for her. Services are held for the workers and patients.

Miss Norton has joined Miss Foreman in Aleppo, and the school there is much appreciated, even with the uncertain, fluctuating population. Thousands of refugees are in and around Aleppo, ten thousand Greeks living in large caves outside the city in a very wretched condition, many existing by begging. About five thousand Armenians are settled in tents or long huts, divided off in rooms and arranged as a camp, with streets and districts according to the places from which the people came. Wells have been dug, shops are open, little schools are started, and church services are held. The former chaplain of the Aintab hospital, with a number of Bible-women and other helpers, is doing good evangelistic work among these people; and over again is being lived the story told in the Acts of the Apostles of those who were scattered abroad by persecution going everywhere preaching the Word. Many of these people had been deported before, sent down into a desolate region beyond the Dead Sea; when the war was over they came back and started in to live and to work; now once more the poor homes are broken up, but many have the steadfast faith that endures to the end.

Miss Trowbridge sends her warm greetings to the New Haven Branch, with the assurance that on the day of our Annual Meeting she and Dr. Hamilton will be thinking of and praying for us all. As a motto for the coming year, she sends us this wonderful promise found in Jeremiah 33:3,—"Call unto me, and I will answer thee, and show thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."

Adana. After a refreshing vacation at her home in Switzerland, Miss Borel returned in the autumn, full of energy and enthusiasm. At the opening of the school, eighty girls were enrolled, a marked increase over last year. Many of them were Greeks, bright, lively and very responsive. When in November the message came that all native Christians would be permitted to move to some other land, the Greeks left in a body, and the number of pupils dwindled to thirty.

Soon, however, they inherited girls from the French schools which had been closed, and the number rapidly increased, with girls of many nationalities, all eager to learn, all working and playing happily together in an unusual way. The daily program has become quite complicated, and the few teachers are over-worked, but they are glad to have the opportunity of reaching so many lives and homes. A charming Jugo-Slav pupil joined the church at Easter, the church that holds its services in Turkish, and is attended by Christians of many races. A recent notable event was the visit to the city of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, with his unveiled bride standing for progress and freedom.

Constantinople. Miss Kinney, who can bring out the best from even the most unresponsive, has done much toward developing strong, practical Christian character in the school for Armenian girls at Scutari. In November the decision was reached that the school must be closed. There was great sorrow, even "howling and moaning" among the girls. Some were sent to their own homes or to those of relatives. About forty orphans, with no place of refuge, were taken to an old monastery, and kept busy with lessons, sewing and cooking.

In January came the joyful news that the school was to be re-opened. All the girls who had not left the country came back to register, and the term began very hopefully. There may be hardships in the future under the new laws, but Miss Kinney with her tact and experience will be sure to meet all questions diplomatically.

Marsovan. Miss Willard and Miss Noyes are the only Americans in Marsovan, and the only native Christian worker is Pompish Prapion who fills, as far as she can, the place of Miss Anna Felician. The need of industrial relief has been pressing, the people wanting work more than anything else. Making couch-covers from the home-spun wool cloth has furnished occupation for many.

In November came the same "permission" to remove all Greek and Armenian orphans, and preparations for the migration soon became strenuous. After their own three hundred were started off, other detachments came in from the interior, one hundred and fifty or more at a time, to be cleaned up and equipped for the next stage of their journey. Measles, mumps and small-pox appeared, and isolation wards were soon filled. The last of these bands left in February, but the workers are still busy preparing and sending clothing and bedding to the thousands of refugees at Samsoun waiting for further transportation.
Talas. All the long summer Mrs. Sewny was busy and happy in her work for the hospital and orphanages, though she did once write rather wistfully, "What a treat it would be to go to church!" Early in the fall, in order to save expense and to concentrate the work, hundreds of children were brought in from outlying orphanages. Late in October came the fateful telegram stating that the Government had given permission to move all orphans out of the country. Then followed busy times, three thousand children to be clothed and cleaned and started on a long journey meant much work for many hands. Every week for five weeks, ninety wagons, drawn by donkeys, camels or Arabian horses, and loaded with children, moved out of Talas and down over the rough mountain roads, a five-day journey to the nearest railway station. Guarded by American Near East workers, not a single child was lost by death or accident. Two days on the railroad, traveling on flat cars, brought them to the port of Mersine. In this city, full of forlorn refugees, Mrs. Sewny stayed for two weeks, receiving the children as they arrived.

Then, with eight hundred Greek children and helpers, she went to Aedipsos Baths, a summer resort on one of the Grecian islands. Miles from anywhere it seemed, but very welcome was the feeling of being in a free land again. Soon came an addition of six hundred Armenian children from Sivas, then seventeen hundred from Constantinople. Just as these were getting settled, thirty two hundred more arrived from Samsoun, some from orphanages in and around Marsovan, and some miserable waifs picked up in the streets. Diseases of all kinds broke out,—pneumonia, mumps, whooping-cough and small-pox. These were isolated, as far as possible, in different rooms of a large building used as a hospital. Even Mrs. Sewny was laid low for three days by the grippe, much to her disgust, for when there was so much to do, she "had no time to be sick."
Wood and fresh water were scarce, but the sea and the hot sulphur water furnished baths; the buildings were apportioned among Greeks and Armenians, girls and boys; the weak and sickly were put on special diet; and soon a marked improvement appeared in health, manners and morals. A Sunday-school was started, over which children and teachers were alike enthusiastic. But they were all to move on by the middle of April, and Mrs. Sewny may have already returned to the work of the Board somewhere in Turkey.

The Caucasus. "The Greatest Orphanage in the World," as the "Literary Digest" calls the Alexandropol establishment with its eighteen thousand boys and girls, had too strong a pull for Miss Silliman to resist. She is still doing efficient work as head of the educational department, and is deeply interested in watching the children grow and develop. The boys especially seem to change so fast, and it is a problem to keep them at useful occupations. Their chief recreation during the winter has been football, played on the hard-trodden snow, with rules and regulations adapted to circumstances.

Miss Silliman is rejoicing in the companionship of Miss McLaren, who is at the head of the nurses' training department,—transforming wild, unruly refugee girls into clean, quiet, methodical nurses. A fierce blizzard brought some discomfort to the force, just after an order to cut down the fuel supply twenty per cent, and it was doubly hard on the poor people outside. A fire broke out in a storehouse, and although the loss was not as heavy as at first feared, in that land of poverty any loss is severe.

All of the American Board missionaries in Turkey are unanimous in their opinion that the work of the Board in that country must be pushed forward with redoubled energy. They realize that for advance, or even for continuation, of the work, they will greatly need reënforce-ments in personnel and in money; and they firmly believe that the church in America will rally to their support. We, the New Haven Branch of the Woman’s Board of Missions, surely will not disappoint them.

INDIA.

The story of our mission work in India during the past year is on the whole one of quiet progress.

In looking over our list of pledged work one is always impressed with the large share of it which is conducted by native agents, such as teachers and Bible women. Their work is arduous, they are paid barely a living wage. Within the limits of an annual report it is impossible to mention them by name or to describe their individual achievements. Yet their work constitutes the broad foundation on which the rest is built, and it is surely fitting to place on record here a word of appreciation of their part in the great enterprise.

Bombay. The Bombay School reports a greater number of pupils enrolled than for many years previous, and the school enjoys an excellent and increasing reputation for educational efficiency. About half of the pupils come from Christian families, and the Christian atmosphere and influence in the school are admirable. Miss Ruth Simpson, a young missionary of the Woman’s Board, has recently been assigned to the school. She teaches the boys and girls of the senior class, whom she finds “fine young people,” and has gone to live in Bowker Hall, to work and play with the girls, and do all that she can to build Christian character and responsibility.

With the close of the school year our physician, Dr. Karmarkar, is retiring from active service and leaving Bombay. There are many relations to terminate, for aside from her conduct of the dispensary and of the Bible women’s work connected with it and her care of the health of the school children, she has had private practice, held office in the National Missionary Society and in the Young Women's Christian Association, and been active in church and Sunday School. The severing of these ties will not be easy. She regrets that the building fund for the medical work, started years ago, is still incomplete, and that no one is ready to take up and develop this work which she is relinquishing, but she is content to leave these things and her future activities to God's guidance. So far as she made plans, she expects to return to her native place, Belgaum, to rest and to engage in such evangelistic and perhaps medical work as her strength will permit. She will consider herself always a missionary of the New Haven Branch, and we are honored in being able to keep her name on our roll.

Ahmednagar. Miss Bruce, principal of the Girls' School at Ahmednagar, sends her grateful thanks for the generous pack which Santa Claus brought in the guise of boxes from America, and tells us how acceptable were the pads and pencils, the soap, the dolls, and all the rest, especially the nightgowns. 'She writes that those who are in the school from day to day and year to year see little change, but that Mrs. Edith Smith, who has just returned after two years' absence, rejoices their hearts by seeing improvement in the general tone of the school and especially in the English used by the pupils. Good English is a prime requisite of a first class high school, and that this should be a first class high school, perhaps a union high school for the Deccan, is one of Miss Bruce's aims. This year for the first time there are in attendance three pupils from other missions. A second aim is to give excellent training in domestic science. Pupils studying this subject are in turn made responsible for the housekeeping of a group of four girls for two weeks at a time in a small house, doing the buying and accounting as well as the cooking and cleaning. An exhibit of the very practical work of the sewing and cooking classes was held on Alumnae Day in October. Bible study forms a large and important part of the curriculum from the infant standard to the last year of high school.

Dr. Harriet Clark has carried on the hospital work with enthusiasm in spite of the absence of Dr. Ruth Hume on furlough and of Miss Johnson, superintendent of nurses, on sick leave; and has used vacations and spare moments for language study. The efficiency and comfort of the staff, which were greatly aided by the installation of a sanitary water system a year ago, are to be further augmented by electric lighting, and by a Ford car given by students of Wellesley College. Dr. Clark is making a determined fight against the giving of opium to babies, speaking daily about it in the hospital and having the Bible woman give five minutes to the subject every day in the dispensary. In the effort to follow up every possible case of this sort the Ford car will be invaluable.

Wai. For thirty years the annual report of our work in Wai has centered in Mrs. Sibley. A year ago she was on her way back to India after a furlough during which we had twice had the opportunity to come again into close personal touch with her and to realize afresh the rare charm of her personality. The shock with which we read that her ship had sunk and that her name was on the list of the missing is still fresh in our minds. A pioneer in a difficult and hostile field, she had from the first consecrated to her task all her powers of organization, all her keenness of discernment, all the riches of her spirit; and the well-developed work at Wai to-day is her best memorial.

The Bible women whom she directed with sympathy and affection continue with a beautiful spirit and with increasing influence their ministry in the homes and in the hospital and dispensary. Her associate, Miss Gordon, superintends the schools, in two of which we have a share, and reports that while there is still much irregularity in attendance yet the Station School grows steadily in numbers and efficiency, and that it is a great joy that even 130 girls are having their chance.

Vellore. The great event of the year connected with the Vellore Medical School is the completion of the successful campaign in this country and elsewhere in behalf of the endowment fund for the union colleges. It will now be possible to carry out plans for the buildings and equipment most needed for this important institution. It is interesting to note that already our Congregational work in India is benefiting from Vellore, through the service of several of its graduates in the hospitals at Wai and Madura.

Madura. After a furlough which included a term of study at the Teachers' College, New York, Miss Katie Wilcox is returning to Madura, eager to resume her work at the head of the Normal Department of Capron Hall School. Though as many as 60 would-be pupils were refused admission to the school last year, 559 were admitted into buildings designed for a fraction of that number.
The inadequacy of the plant makes the work most difficult for teachers and pupils, and at the same time results in the loss of desirable students and teachers who cannot endure the crowded conditions. A new recitation building has been authorized, and efforts are being made to secure the money for its erection as soon as possible. The flooding of the compound during the rains, with the washing away of some of the temporary buildings, added to the difficulties of the past year; also the marriage of Miss Wyman and the withdrawal of Miss Chandler, director of the very successful kindergarten training course, makes additions to the teaching force imperative. It is a disappointment to Miss Wilcox to return without a kindergartner.

The main purpose of the school is the training of Christian leaders, especially teachers, and the pupils come largely from Christian homes. Because of caste and purdah restrictions and early marriages, Hindu girls rarely remain in school beyond the primary grades. For the first time in Madura, two Hindu girls are completing the high school course, and two others are high school pupils. The desire for higher education is noticeably growing. Five or six Capron Hall girls have obtained the B.A. degree, four have completed their medical training at Vellore, and thirteen are now in college or medical school. Through various organizations in the school the girls are engaged in evangelistic and community work, contributing both money and personal effort. They recently gave a successful entertainment in order to raise funds for the Webb Memorial Church building, for the completion of which they have long been eager.

The great volume of work which we have come to expect of the hospital is reflected in Dr. Parker’s report for the first six months of the calendar year; in-patients, 593; dispensary patients, 5,725; total treatments, 16,312. On the staff of the hospital there are now three young Indian women whose medical training makes them valuable assistants. Of one of these we learn that she is doing a good deal of hookworm work, and that she has found in some cases as many as four varieties of hookworm being entertained by a patient at one time. The senior assistant, Miss Grace Kennett, once a helpless baby protegée of Dr. Parker, now a staff worker on our list, looks after the clean surgical and the maternity cases. She is said to have exceptional skill in obstetrics.

Outside calls which often involve tedious journeys tax the time and strength of the doctor in charge, and the need of an associate is self-evident. Temporary help has been given by a doctor from the London Mission who came in October for a six months’ stay. It was a keen disappointment to Dr. Parker last summer to learn that Miss Twichel, a nurse who was arriving at that time in India under appointment to Madura, was more urgently needed elsewhere, and had been diverted to the other field. This hospital with its modern equipment and its great output of blessing offers to two young women of the requisite character and professional training an attractive investment of life.

Ceylon. In Ceylon, where for some years we have had an interest in Bible women’s work, we have now also a share in kindergartens. Miss Lucy Clark has at Uduvil both an English and a Tamil kindergarten of happy brown babies, and there she trains kindergarten teachers. So important does the government consider this work for tiny children that it has ordered kindergartens in all the village schools. Many of them are under Miss Clark’s supervision, and the teachers are largely of her training.

Japan.

The Night School at Matsuyama is feeling the pinch of the present cost of living, which seems in Japan to be even more in advance of former costs than in other countries. Miss Judson begs the Woman’s Board to stand by the Night School and to make it possible to pay the teachers a living wage. She says that while the boys are in the majority among the students, it is largely their achievements in the higher schools that have won for the Night School aid from three departments of the government. She looks for increases in government aid in the course of time, and for greater support from other Japanese sources. There is in the school always a considerable group of girls who would have no other opportunity to secure an education or to learn of Christ; and the kindergarten, the mothers’ meeting, and the three Sunday Schools are also true Woman’s Board work.
The Girls' School, under its very capable, very modest principal, Miss Hoyt, has continued to give that Christian education and that training in responsibility which are so necessary in a country of changing civilization. Comprehensive plans for the material development of the school are being studied, but no definite step has yet been decided. It is a great joy to this Branch to know that through a legacy which the past year has brought it may be able to help substantially toward the first new building for this school.
