The Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society is a continuation of the Anglo-Indian Christian Union. The former name marked its catholicity, which still remains, the latter indicates its work. It also includes the Assam Mission, associated with the name of its founder, the late Colonel Foquett; and the "Winter Mission," first suggested by the late Lady Kinnaird.

OBJECTS OF THE SOCIETY.

I. The maintenance of an unsectarian itinerant evangelisation among the widely scattered groups of Europeans and Eurasians in India, otherwise destitute of Gospel ordinances, at Railway Stations, on Tea Estates, &c. This is the chief object of the Society.

II. The appointment of gifted Evangelists to visit the chief centres of population and influence, bringing the Gospel to bear, apart from denominational distinctions, on all the Churches and Missions, and on the Educated English-speaking Natives. This was the special object of the "Winter Mission."

The following is a form of Bequest or Legacy which may be adopted:

"Item, I give and bequeath the sum of to the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society, and the Receipt of the Treasurer of the Society, for the time being, shall be a sufficient discharge therefor."

ORD CURZON in leaving India, spoke the following noble and remarkable words at a Farewell Banquet held in his honour in Bombay:—"A hundred times in India I have said to myself, 'Oh that to every Englishman in this country, as he ends his work, might be truthfully applied the phrase ‘Thou hast loved righteousness and hated iniquity.’" No man, I believe, ever served India faithfully of whom that could not be said. Remember when the Almighty has placed your hand on the greatest of His ploughs, in whose furrow the nations of the future are germinating and taking shape, to drive the blade a little further forward in your time, to feel that somewhere among those millions you have left a little justice or happiness or prosperity, a sense of manliness or moral dignity, a spring of patriotism, and the dawn of intellectual enlightenment or a sense of duty where it did not exist—that is enough—that is enough. That is the Englishman's justification in India."

The Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society has numbered among its Directors not a few who have served India in the spirit enjoined by Lord Curzon, and we have during this last year had to mourn the loss of two such in our honoured Vice-President, Sir William Muir, and Mr James Simson. Elsewhere in this Report expression is given in behalf of the members of the Committees, both of London and Edinburgh, to their grateful remembrance of their long-continued service and constant readiness to promote the interests of the Society. Sir William Muir belonged to that order of Anglo-Indian Christian statesmen whose character and career have done so much to justify Britain's occupation of India, and his fostering care of the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society was due to his recognising in it an agency through which our countrymen could be helped to realise the ideal held up before them by the late Viceroy.

The government of India is indeed one of the greatest ploughs Providence ever put in the hands of any nation. India has had a wonderful past and there is doubtless a great future in store for her. Every European in India should recognise that he has his share in helping to shape that future; has, in fact, his hand on the plough. There is much that should help towards the recognition of this fact.
India can never become like our great Colonies of Australia, South Africa, and Canada, a permanent home for our race. The whole situation proclaims that we are there for a purpose, and that purpose is not our own aggrandisement but the good of the people. The realisation of this Providential purpose is fitted to impart an earnestness to life in India, and may be regarded as some compensation for influences that are not so helpful. The pilgrim view of life is not altogether strange to Anglo-Indians. It is the true view of human life everywhere, and we may be thankful for such elements in our experience as tend to remind us of it. It is the Christian view of life, and it will be in proportion as our countrymen live under the power of the Gospel that they will be enabled to fulfil their mission in India.

From this point of view the great importance of providing the ordinances of religion for Europeans in India will be at once recognised. In the great centres these have been provided by the various Churches. It has been the special work of the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society to care for the spiritual welfare of our countrymen along the Railway Lines, on the Tea and Coffee Plantations, and in other remote parts where they would otherwise be neglected. Our highest imperial interest in India is the Christianity of our own people, who represent us to the natives. It is the aim of the Society, through its agents who conduct services among our countrymen scattered over India, to keep before them the claims of Christ, so that the name of Christian may be not nominal but real. God has blessed the work both among old and young, and we confidently appeal to the Churches at home to help us in carrying it on. There are elements of interest in the life of our countrymen in India that have been brought before the public at home in the pages of fiction and the descriptions of travellers. We are thankful for whatever enables their life to be more fully realised. They are our representatives and are doing the work of our Empire in a great dependency. The Church of Christ at home should realise her responsibility for every one of her children who goes out to India. The Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society is an agency through which she can in some measure have the opportunity of discharging this responsibility. We are thankful for the ground that has been overtaken and especially for the extension of the work in recent years. There is land still to be occupied however, and districts where our countrymen require Evangelists to visit them and Pastors to be settled among them. If the need were more adequately realised the means, we are assured, would not be wanting. We trust that the Christian public, and especially those who have commercial interests in India, will so respond to the appeal made by this report that adequate means will be provided both for maintaining and extending the work.

JOHN FORGAN, Joint Honorary Secretary.
CHANGES IN STAFF AND DIRECTORATE.

The Rev. Arnold Boyd, M.A., who for the past four years has carried on the secretarial work of the Society in India with so much acceptance, is coming home this spring, and the Directors have appointed Rev. A. S. Crichton, M.A., of Bombay, to take his place as Secretary in India. Mr Crichton wrote home signifying his willingness to undertake the work, but immediately afterwards, before he took over the duties, he found it necessary to come home owing to the state of his health. It is hoped that a few months in this country will completely restore him, and that he will be quite able to return in the autumn and take up his duties in connection with his own church and our Society.

Rev. S. J. Jones, who was formerly an agent of the Society, has been appointed to fill the vacancy in the staff caused by the resignation of the Rev. F. W. Dunster. Mr Jones is to work a large section of the East Indian Railway, with residence at Dinapore as a centre. He knows this district well, having been stationed there formerly, and we are sure the many friends of the Society along this line of railway will give Mr Jones a hearty welcome. Rev. W. E. Cooper has filled the situation in the interim, so that the work has not suffered through the absence of a regular agent. Two honorary workers have been added to the staff; Rev. J. Pengwern Jones, of Sylhet, who for many years has conducted services for the planters as far as his time would permit, will continue this very important work as an Hon. Evangelist of the Society. Rev. A. E. Collier, Gaya, has also been appointed to the staff as an honorary worker, and will travel over a portion of the Patna and Gaya State Railway from Luckeserai to Mogul Serai and Gaya to Bankipore. This will leave Rev. S. J. Jones free to devote more time to other parts of his large district.

Mr C. T. Studd is also coming home on furlough, and it is hoped that both he and Mr Boyd will be able to do some deputation work, and awaken fresh interest at home in the spiritual needs of our own countrymen in India.

Several changes have taken place in the Directorate. Death has been busy, and two of the Directors who for many years took a keen interest in the work of the Society have been called Home—Sir Wm. Muir and Mr James Simson, while Rev. D. Butler and Mr H. B. Finlay have resigned. Colonel W. J. W. Muir, son of the late Sir Wm. Muir, has been appointed to take his father's place as a Vice President and a member of the London Committee. Rev. Dr J. Morrison, late Principal of the Church of Scotland Institution, Calcutta, and Rev. W. S. Sutherland, M.A., late of Kalimpong, have been appointed members of the Edinburgh Committee.

Mr J. B. Crichton, Hon. Treasurer for the Society, found, on being transferred from Bombay to Karachi, that he was able to carry on the work from that city, and will kindly continue to do so. Remittances may be sent to him addressed to the Mercantile Bank of India, Karachi.

Mrs Cumming, who for the past six years has been an honorary worker of the Society, rendered valuable help in addressing meetings in various parts of the country during the time she was home on furlough, and the Directors again desire to express their gratitude to her for all the kind service she has rendered to the Society both at home and in India. Mrs Cumming has again returned to India, this time to visit the Darjeeling district, but she hopes before returning to this country to visit again her old district on the Southern Mahratta Railway.

Home Work.

During the past year quite a large number of meetings have been held, from Torquay in the South right up to Stromness and Kirkwall in the North. These have been principally of two kinds, Drawing-room Meetings and Lantern Services. Valuable help has been rendered by quite a number of friends of the Society in addressing and taking part in these meetings, among whom may be mentioned our Hon. Secretaries, Rev. Dr Mackay and Rev. John Forgan, also Rev. David Reid and Mr Andrew Stewart, Mrs Cumming, and Rev. F. W. Dunster. The Lantern and Cinematograph has again proved a great source of attraction, and the meetings held during the past winter have been more successful than any previous season. The nett proceeds of the Lantern Lectures, after paying all expenses, rent of halls, advertising, travelling, &c., has amounted this year to £107, 7s. 1d., and as a result of these meetings several new Secretaries, Treasurers, and Lady Collectors have been enlisted. A Children’s Meeting was held at each place visited, and the little ones greatly enjoyed the fine series of views and the entertainment provided for them. Since the Lantern was purchased it is estimated that over 30,000 children have been present at these meetings and heard about the work of the Society. It is hoped that in the days to come some of these will grow up to take a real interest in the work of the Society and perhaps go forth as workers.

The Directors have pleasure in announcing that Mrs Wauchope of Niddrie has kindly consented to act as President of the Edinburgh Ladies’ Committee, a position filled for so many years by her mother, the late Lady Muir. It is hoped that this will give a stimulus to the work in Edinburgh, as it is felt that a much larger amount of support should be received from this city, Edinburgh having many ties with India.

Mrs Frame, 11 Great Western Terrace, Glasgow, our new Superintendent of Lady Collectors in that city, has entered on her duties with much sympathy and zeal, and arrangements are being made for fresh developments of the work there.
FINANCES.

During the past ten years there has been a steady increase in the income of the Society, and we are glad to say that this has been maintained during the past year. In 1895 the total income of the Society from all sources was £1,292, 4s. 7d., while for the year under report this amounted to £2325, 5s. 4d. There is a gratifying increase both in India and at home. In 1895 the income in India was £307, 13s. 9d., while this year it amounted to £788, 2s. 2d., which is the largest year on record for India. In 1895 the home income was £984, 10s. 10d., while this year it amounts to £1537, 3s. 2d. From this it will be seen that there is much cause for gratitude to God for His goodness during these years. During these years also quite an increase has been made in the staff of workers in India, while the home expenditure has been kept at the very lowest point. Still, notwithstanding all the effort that has been put forth, we have again to record a deficit, though this year we are glad to say it is much less than for the past two years. The total income of the Society amounted to £2325, 5s. 4d., while the total expenditure was £2351, 19s. 2d., making a deficit of £26, 13s. 10d. It is earnestly hoped, therefore, that the many friends in this country and in India who are helping in raising the funds of the Society will not in any wise relax their efforts, but rather increase them. Probably at no time in its history has the Society been in a better position for the carrying on of work in India than at present, but while saying this, it must be borne in mind that the work is only in its infancy yet. Many needy fields are still unoccupied, and the Directors earnestly appeal for increased funds, so that more men may be sent out.

The Directors desire to call special attention to the Working Fund, which during recent years has been very much reduced. At the present time the Working Fund is only £400, while it should be at least £1000, to meet the demands made upon it during the year. During the summer months the income of the Society is very small while the amount remitted to India is practically the same month by month. This means a heavy overdraft at the bank for a considerable portion of the year, on which interest has to be paid, and if the Working Fund could be increased to the desired amount this would be avoided. The Directors earnestly hope that some of the Lord's stewards will bear this matter in mind.

HELPERS.

The Directors again desire to record their thanks to the large number of friends, both in this country and in India, who have helped in gathering in the funds of the Society. The large staff of lady collectors deserve very special thanks for the very efficient way in which they have helped, and also the local secretaries and treasurers. Some have resigned during the past year but their places have all been filled, and at the present time the staff of lady collectors is larger than at any previous time in the history of the Society. It is hoped that during the coming year many more will offer to help in this way. Two Sales of Work have been held during the year—one which Mr and Mrs C. T. Studd very kindly arranged at Ootacamund, which realised Rs. 611 (£40, 14s. 8d.), the other by Mrs Orr and members of the Ladies' Union, which brought in £40, 10s. 6d. These Sales of Work are most helpful, and if other friends can arrange for them to be held, the Directors will be most grateful. Just as we go to press we are glad to learn that Mr and Mrs Nelson have also had a Sale of Work at Belgaum which realised over Rs. 200.

The various railway companies in India have again been most kind in granting passes to the agents of the Society, which has helped them very much in their work. Special thanks are due to the Hon. Auditors, Mr Thomas S. Martin, C.A., Edinburgh, and Mr A. C. Owen, Bombay, for their kindness in auditing the accounts of the Society. The Directors are also indebted to The Student for the use of the portrait of Sir William Muir, which makes such a handsome frontispiece to the Report.

GLIMPSES OF WORK FROM THE FIELD.

REV. ARNOLD BOYD, M.A., Indian Secretary.

Mr Boyd sends home an interesting account of a trip which he made visiting several of the Agents in their districts. Leaving Lahore, he first went to Itarsi and Bhopal, where he met the Rev. S. J. Jones, and consulted with him about future work. From there he went to Bombay and had a meeting with the Bombay Committee, conferring with them about the carrying on of the work on that side of India. He then visited portions of the districts worked by Mr Row, Mr Nelson, and Mr Adams, conducting services at several places, and encouraging the Evangelists in their work. Space does not permit of giving details of the journey, which covered a very extensive area, but much useful information was gathered, and several important changes were suggested, which may be carried out later on.

REV. F. W. ADAMS, SABARMATI.

"Preached in the Institute at 8 a.m. on Sunday Morning the 22nd. Foreman — who came in with the mail on the former occasion, attended service although he had been 'on the road' the whole of the previous night.

"In the morning I visited and had prayer with Mr — and family, who being isolated are otherwise destitute of Gospel ordinances. On another occasion I visited this family and found the younger son confined to his room with fever. As bubonic plague was rife there was cause for apprehension.

"Sabbath morning, the 26th, conducted services in the Institute at —. Although my congregation was small it included two ladies and a gentleman who came from a distance to be present.

"Notwithstanding that Mr —'s labour had been at a deadlock owing to last year's drought, he sent the Society a donation of Rs. 25, being a portion of the Lord's tenth on the sale of his farm produce."
"The following is interesting as it comes from a Parsee gentleman whom I have visited on two or three occasions:—'I send you a money order for Rs. 5 with hearty wishes for success in your undertakings. I also send a small parcel of tracts on the stewardship of money, which you may dispose of as you think best.'

REV. H. RYLANDS BROWN, DARJEELING.

"Haldibari is growing in importance as a jute market. There is a sahib community of some seventeen persons. We were received most kindly by all. Nearly all attended service in the Dak bungalow. Hearty invitations were given to return.

"At Saidpur we were hospitably entertained by a perfect stranger, who is engaged in the jute trade. Numerous visits were paid throughout Saturday and Sunday morning. A well-attended service was held in the Institute on Sunday evening. The singing was particularly hearty. It is a great privilege to preach a free and full salvation through faith in Jesus, to those who seldom hear the gospel.

"Sara Ghat has grown greatly the last few years. Here we were glad to meet some old friends. The attendance at service was good. The noise of trains was a bit disturbing.

"Damookdea is a much quieter place than Sara. The service was well attended, though we missed one or two who might have been present, if 'where there's a will there's a way' had been in operation. It was a brightening feature to see several children in the front row.

"A large community is found at Goalundo, residing on steamers, with a number of railway folk living inland. Many familiar faces were met with here. A capital 'church' was got ready, with electric lights, chairs, &c., on the bow of a steamer; thirty-one persons, including a few children, came to the service. We were again thankful for an opportunity of preaching Christ. It is gratifying to find these open doors, and so many ready to attend.

"A long day on the Brahmaputra, arriving at Serajunge after midnight. We left Goalundo thoroughly tired out physically, and were astonished yet delighted to find our host waiting to drive us six or seven miles to his house, which was reached a little after one o'clock. We were pleased to see the missionary friends stationed here. There were only six persons at the service, which was carried through with difficulty owing to a heavy cold. It was just twenty-four years since we first visited this place—then an important station containing some twenty Europeans, mainly Scotsmen.

"We were agreeably surprised to find some sermons and books of Spurgeon in two bungalows in a station, and to trace them to a resident in the place who circulated them, having himself proved their worth.

"The indifference of many persons met with to the things of God is very sad, and should call forth much more intercessory prayer.

"At one service we noticed a bright little girl listening most interestingly. The next day, when visiting at her house, we found she could not only repeat the text, but spoke of two incidents that had been narrated, showing marked intelligence and attention.'

REV. W. E. COOPER, DINAPORE.

Mr Cooper, who has carried on the work since Mr Dunster left for home, completes his term on March 31st, 1906, when Rev. S. J. Jones enters upon his duties in this district. Mr Cooper writes:—

"Previous to holding a service house to house visitation is engaged in—with a word of counsel to those seeking advice, prayer with those who are ill, and expressions of sympathy for all.

"There is scarcely a subject upon which our help and advice is not sought—a man out of employment, wanting financial assistance, and letters of introduction or recommendation; advice as to what schools children should be sent to, or the obtaining of religious books for those who are in need.
"Thanks to a friend I have been able to distribute here and there several copies of 'Precious Truths for Everyone,' and hope they will be productive of eternal good.

"I am glad to say that a Sunday School has been started at Moghal Serai by Miss Sankey and Mrs Irvine. It is a real acquisition, and the little ones look forward to attending it with undisguised pleasure.

"In Khagoie I now hold a short Children’s Service for half-an-hour in the Institute, before the regular Adult Service. This was at the request of some of the parents. The meetings have been well attended, and the effort to reach the young much appreciated."

Mr John McDowall, Podanur.

"The work at Podanur has been carried on from week to week as usual, the Sunday School and Children’s Meeting being looked after by my wife. Of late the services have been well attended, and the interest such as to inspire hope that it will result in decided blessing.

"With the gradual increase of families both here and at other stations along the line there is the continued need to carry the Gospel to those thus isolated, and to accomplish this I travel between Jalapur and Cannanore. At some of the stations visited by me they have absolutely no other opportunity, while at others again such opportunities are few and far between.

"In holding these services and in the visitation of the people I always do so apart from any question of denominational connection, but with the one aim of so presenting Christ that they may be able to apprehend Him, so that He may prove a true Helper in the daily life and a Saviour in the hour of temptation.

"Our Prayer Meetings continue on the Fridays, and at times our drawing-room is quite full. Lately I spent some days at Cannanore and had a series of meetings with the soldiers there. Such meetings are proverbial for their heartiness.

"I have lately lost the help of some good Christians owing to transfers having taken place. In the case of one especially, I feel sure his coming to Podanur has not been fruitless, and that he will be a centre of blessing in the place he has now gone to. Such transfers always mean a new beginning to a greater or less extent."

Pastor W Mallis, Coonoor.

"During the past few years I have visited on behalf of the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society two of the Planting Districts on the Nilgiri Hills, viz.: Kil Kotagiri and Calacumby. Occasionally I am able to conduct a Sunday Service at some convenient centre in one of those districts, and as a rule the Services are well attended, and seemingly appreciated by the planters. More frequently I visit from estate to estate and see the planters in their homes. During these visits one has an opportunity of conversation regarding spiritual things, or for prayer and distribution of religious literature. Prayer is much needed for the planter in his isolation from all means of grace."

Rev. Isaac F. Row, Poona and Jubbulpore.

"This quarter completes my third year of work since returning from my last furlough, and after deducting the time spent out of India since my first arrival, I have now finished twenty-five years' ministerial service in this land, and during the whole of that period have never been laid aside a fortnight at a time by illness or accident, so that I have much occasion for thankfulness to almighty God, by whose mercy alone I have been so wonderfully preserved. At the present time I know of no Christian worker in India who is called upon to travel more frequently than myself. During the past quarter I have covered several thousand miles as usual, and visited many stations on my district.

"Amongst the places visited have been the following, viz.:- Dhond, Sholapore, Nolgi, Gulbarga, Shahabad, Raichur, Talegaon, Lanouli, Secunderabad, Chadarghat. These places are all in the Poona District."
Sunday Services have been held at Dhond, Sholapure, and Raichur, and weekday visits paid to the other places mentioned. The attendances at Sholapure and Raichur are specially good. At the latter place I use always the Church of England form of service, as the people desire this. I went to Secunderabad by special invitation to address the Missionary Conference on our work. The invitation came through an old friend, Rev. Canon Goldsmith, of the Church Missionary Society. Besides delivering this address I had one evangelistic meeting, and at Chadarghat, six miles from Secunderabad, delivered a Temperance Address.

On the other part of the G. I. P. Railway (the Jubbulpore side) I visited during the quarter the following places, viz.:—Igatpuri, Bhusawal, Itarsi (for a few hours), Bina, Bhopal, Jhauri, Lalitpur, Agra Road (a new railway station opened a few months ago), Muttra, Phulera, Ajmere, Rutlam.

At Bhusawal I met the Rev. Mr Rainsford, of the Church of England, who had spent thirteen years in Assam. He received me very cordially when I called on him, and said that he had often heard of me from the planters, and he showed his fraternal spirit by attending a service I held in the evening at the Alliance Mission Church.

It is quite impossible in a report like this to give anything like a detailed account of all that is embraced in such a work as this, including as it does so many incidents of a personal character, besides the public ministrations to congregations gathered here and there to hear the Word of God. In the aggregate I am able in the course of a year's work to reach a large number of people, Europeans and Indians, and I know that this labour is not in vain in the Lord.

REV. JOHN NELSON, BELGAUM.

At every station visited we are thanked for coming, and 'We are always glad to see you' is the usual expression. In my travels and at the services I have met old friends from North India, and have been able to talk over old times spent with them when in the work of the Society in '76. At the larger stations we get the many; at the smaller ones, where there are very few families, we get as many as can come out. Very often the mothers are kept at home by some of the children being sick. We are also welcomed into all the homes. While waiting at one of the stations for my train a gentleman was carried on to the platform in an unconscious condition. He had been out tiger shooting with the Mysore Resident, went up too close to a wounded animal, when it sprang on him and mauled him very badly. Poor fellow, he was taken to Bangalore Hospital, where he died a few days after. The principal item of interest during the quarter was the first anniversary of the Belgaum Sunday School. Mr Shaw of Dharwar very kindly brought his camera, and took a photo of the teachers and children. We hope to send a copy as soon as we receive them. The following account appeared in the Bombay Guardian:—'The first anniversary of the Sunday School, under the auspices of the A.I.E.S., was held in the Railway Institute, Belgaum, on Thursday, the 18th May. Tea was provided for over fifty children, and they did ample justice to the nice cakes, &c., provided for them. After tea a photo was taken, then games, which the little ones always enjoy, until 6.15, when all went inside for the prize distribution. Jas. Shaw, Esq., President of the S.M. Railway District Committee of the Society, occupied the chair. After prayer by the Rev. J. Nelson, Mrs Nelson read the Superintendent's Report, which was very satisfactory. The children sang very sweetly some of the hymns they had been taught. After the chairman's remarks, he called on Mrs J. B. Smith, wife of our civil surgeon, to give away the prizes. Mr Shaw gave us a beautiful magic lantern entertainment which delighted old and young. At the close he was accorded three hearty cheers for his kindness. After the Doxology all went home, declaring it had been quite a gala day for the railway people of Belgaum. There was a very large gathering of parents and friends. The Institute was beautifully decorated for the occasion by Mr Newcombe, our local foreman.' Our thanks are due to Colonel Burn Murdoch, J. Shaw, Esq., W. B. Wright, Esq., and Mrs J. B. Smith for their kindness in contributing towards the prizes and tea for the children. I may just mention here that Mrs Nelson has opened another Sunday School in the Soldiers' Prayer Room for the children of the regiment.

"I started out on March 12th, and spent twenty-three days on circuit. I travelled 270 miles, chiefly in the saddle; visited thirty estates, and met the planters from four other estates situated along the route. Including planters, their wives and children, I visited forty-five persons.

"Some of the planters told me that a padre had never been to their bungalows before, and others that a padre had not visited them for twenty years."

"During July, August, and September it was impossible to get about the coffee estates owing to the monsoon, but I visited some of the estates in this neighbourhood that are near the Government road, and held divine service on the Sundays for the Eurasians and English residents of Chickmagalur.

"A young planter came home to hospital about the end of August. During the first week I visited him daily, and during the second week of his stay here I visited him twice a day. He went to Bangalore for an operation and has since died.

"During the second half of September the annual camp meeting of the Volunteers of North Mysore was held here. I met all the men daily, dined with them in the evening, and usually had a few of them at my bungalow for breakfast. I drilled, marched, and shot with them, and held service for them on the Sunday."

Mr H. T. Slade, Hubli, Hon. Evangelist.

"During the year under report I have much pleasure in stating evangelistic work has been carried on as usual in this station.

"The Sunday Morning Service held in the S.M. Railway Institute has been maintained regularly each Sabbath.

"The Sunday School is well attended, the parents co-operating with us by sending their children regularly, and we are grateful for the interest the children take in their School.

"Our Society of Young People's Christian Union is, I am glad to state, growing more popular, and a number of our children are taking a deeper interest in it."

Rev. James Shaw, Quetta.

"A report of work on this district during the year 1905 must necessarily be much like those of former years. The usual Evangelistic Services have been held with varying interest and attendance. In view of the smallness of the communities stationed on this frontier line of railway a large attendance at the services is not possible, and that source of interest must be always lacking, though on two occasions at Sibi, owing to special circumstances, I had as many as twenty and twenty-one persons present respectively. At the smaller gatherings, where the addresses were more direct and personal, one can only trust the Word which says, 'The entrance of Thy words giveth light.' A very interesting service was held at Chaman, on the extreme frontier, when, through an unusual combination of circumstances, there are seven men present. The meeting, which was held in the waiting-room, was very encouraging, and was helpful to at least one person, and was not without 'signs following.'

OBITUARY.

Sir William Muir, K.C.S.I., D.C.L., LL.D., Ph.D.

The Directors of the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society have to record with deep sorrow the severe loss which the Society has sustained in the death of Sir William Muir, one of the Vice-Presidents of the Society, who died on 11th July last. For more than thirty years Sir William Muir was a staunch friend and liberal supporter. He was one of the group of distinguished officials who were in the early days the active helpers of the Society's Commissioner in India—those days when the Rev. John Fordyce spent the cold weather in touring through India in the interests of the Society, and in the hot weather—the Simla season—gathered round him the body of worshippers long known as the Union Church of Simla. Among men like Sir Henry Norman (whose loss also the Directors have had recently to deplore), Mr. Barclay Chapman, Sir Charles Aitchison, and others, Sir William Muir was not the least active and zealous in the interests of these institutions, and to the close of his long life he remained a warm and valued friend.

Sir William Muir's intimate knowledge of India, derived from laborious work among its people, and the wide survey of the condition and needs of our own countrymen scattered over that vast country, which his high official place in the Imperial Administration enabled him to take, were brought to bear freely and heartily upon the work of the Society. His extensive social influence and the high respect as a consistent Christian, which his character commanded, made him an abiding source of strength and stability in its councils, and in its position as an Evangelistic and Missionary Agency. After he retired from service in India he associated himself with the work at home, and along with Lord Kinnaird, Sir Charles Aitchison, and others, renewed a close and unremitting interest in its operations and its agents. He attended regularly and presided over the meetings of the Edinburgh Committee, as well as over the public meetings in behalf of the Society held in that city. His high Christian character and unfailing courtesy enabled him to exert the very best influence, while his knowledge and judgment greatly helped in the transaction of business. By his academic position as Principal of the University, and his widely recognised learning and culture, he was permitted to adorn the doctrine of Christ, and add strength to this Society and others in which he was interested in this city and throughout the country.

It is difficult to make any reference to Sir William's work for India without recalling the faithful and strenuous part taken in it by Lady Muir. A notice of her services to the Society (she was President of the Edinburgh Ladies' Committee) was recorded on the occasion of her death in 1897. The influence of life-long co-operation and the joint sympathy of Sir William and Lady Muir in all Christian efforts for India filled full the stream of blessing which their lives were privileged to be.

It is unnecessary to dwell on the close connection which from its early years Sir William maintained with the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society. In counsel, in liberal gifts, in public utterances, few friends have shown themselves so helpful and sympathetic. In 1876, speaking at the Public Meeting of the Society in Simla, he said:—

"The snow-clad peaks (often a striking object in the landscape at the place of meeting) are very beautiful, but they are altogether useless in their unapproachable pathless heights. It is not until thawed by the sun that the snow comes down and waters the valleys, clothing them with verdure and gladness. Even so it is not enough for the Christian to seek for the blessings of the Faith, however bright and pure, in the closet alone, presenting all the while a front like that of the snow peaks, cold and inaccessible, to the world: the Christian must carry down his principles and actions into daily life, and so spread his Christian example amongst all ranks of society, European and Native, with whom he comes in contact, as to make his influence and example fruitful blessings among them; and thus we might hope that men, taking knowledge of them that they had been with Jesus, might be drawn on to walk in the same happy paths."

At the Annual Meeting held in Edinburgh, 1892, he said:—"I cannot tell you a more effectual agency for the conversion of the heathen in India than by supporting the Society to Evangelise the European young men and women scattered throughout the country," and again, in 1892, he stated that "the object of the Society was of the very highest importance, both for the saving of your young men, and also for the position of Christianity in the eyes of the natives."

Looking back upon Sir William Muir's work for our Society, we acknowledge that in him God gave us, for many years, one who has been in an eminent degree a friend and helper. For this, and for the example left us, we, the Directors, record our humble thankfulness, and we desire to express to all the members of Sir William Muir's family our deep sympathy in their bereavement, and our sense of the great loss which the Church of Christ and numerous branches of its work have sustained in his removal.

Mr James Simson, B.C.S.

The Directors have also to record with much regret the death of Mr James Simson, one of the oldest and most faithful members of the Edinburgh Committee. Having spent his official life in India, he continued to take a warm interest in it, and was ever ready to promote its welfare. Born in an Aberdeenshire manse, he passed through the usual course at Haileybury and went out in the civil service of the East India Company in 1854. Having been appointed to the North-West Provinces he passed through a useful and honourable career in various important offices. In the Mutiny of 1857 he did good service, for which he was awarded a medal and received the thanks of the Home Government. He rose steadily through the various grades open to a civilian until he became, in 1878, Commissioner of Allahabad, which office he held till he retired in 1882.

Mr Simson was distinguished by an uprightness of character and a fidelity to conviction which won the respect of all who were associated with him, and made him a valuable counsellor; while his willingness to serve every good cause, especially connected with India, testified to the unselfish and Christian spirit which underlay all his actions. His colleagues on the Committee will miss his counsel and genial presence.
ANGLO-INDIAN LADIES’ UNION.

Hon. Secretary and Treasurer—MRS ADOLPHUS ORR,
12 PEMBRIDGE PLACE, BAYSWATER, LONDON, W.

1905-6.

Letters received from India, acknowledging receipt of Bibles and New Testaments sent out before Christmas 1905, have been very encouraging indeed, giving as they do the assurance of these gifts, from members of the “Ladies’ Union,” being most acceptable and much appreciated, also of hearts being gladdened by receiving them—God grant that the good seed may find an entrance into many hearts and bring forth fruit to the praise and glory of His holy name. One member, who kindly contributed 12 Testaments in 1905, writes:—“I must send more next time.” Who can tell what abundant blessings might follow if instead of thirty-two Bibles and Testaments sent in 1905, fifty, or even a hundred, could be forwarded before December 1906, followed by earnest believing prayer. All contributions of books sent to 12 Pembridge Place, Bayswater, London, will be gladly sent on to the Missionaries for distribution amongst Sunday School children and others who are without Bibles.

It is a pleasure to report that the Sale of Work, held on the 29th of March at 12 Pembridge Place, was very successful and realised £40, 10s. 6d. Very sincere thanks are offered to the ladies who so kindly helped in making it a success. Contributions to the Sale were sent by some members of Ladies’ Committee, Lady Collectors, and members of the Anglo-Indian Ladies’ Union. During the past year another member of the Anglo Indian Ladies’ Union has been called to the home above. It is earnestly desired that the vacant places here may be filled by others so that there may be no decrease in the funds.

Contributions for the Anglo-Indian Ladies’ Union.

Mrs ADOLPHUS ORR, Hon. Secretary and Treasurer, 12 Pembridge Place, Bayswater, London, W.—£70, 6s. 9d.

APPENDIX.

The Thirty-fifth Annual Meeting of the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society was held on Thursday afternoon, 26th April 1906, in the Oak Hall of the Edinburgh Café, Princes Street, Edinburgh.

LORD POLWARTH, the President, occupied the Chair.

Following prayer, offered by the Rev. Dr Blair, St. John's Parish Church, Edinburgh, Mr W. STEWART THOMPSON, General Secretary and Treasurer, read extracts from the Annual Report, and presented an Abstract of the Accounts. He also intimated apologies for absence from Rev. P. R. Mackay, D.D., Rev. John Forgan, Rev. J. Morrison, D.D., Rev. Professor Scott, Dr Macdonald, Colonel Sconce, Mr Thomas Matheson, Captain Plummer, Sir Archibald Campbell, Mrs Wauchope of Niddrie. Mrs Ferguson, Mrs Crommelin Brown, and others.

The PResIDENT moved “That the Report, an abstract of which has been read, be adopted as the Thirty-Fifth Report of the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society, and that it be printed and circulated.” He remarked that it had been said that we held India by the sword. That was true, no doubt, but there was another sword by which we held India, and that was the sword of the Spirit—the Word of God, in the influence which it exercised all over India, and in the Christian lives, the high and honourable Christian lives, of many men who had been called to administer affairs in India. Such an one had passed away from them, one who had been a great help to the Society—he meant Sir William Muir. Sir William Muir’s influence as a public man and as a private individual they had felt in this country, and he had exercised the same good influence in India when he was there. Some of them who had spent their lives in India had come in contact with such men as Lawrence and others whose personal influence and prestige, both in private and public positions, were testimonies to the power of Christianity, righteousness, justice, and well-doing in all parts of India. He was reminded of that because that Society had as its object the reaching of Europeans and helping young men who had gone forth to India, and who were scattered all over the country, many of them quite isolated from their fellows. They had in many cases been left alone, without help from home, and away from all Christian sympathy. But the agents of the Society, labouring amongst them and going from place to place, had in times past brought solace and comfort to those who are in solitude, in trial and difficulty—had brought help and restoration to some who had wandered away from the faith of their forefathers and who were in the midst of temptation. They all knew how very apt, when the surroundings were adverse, the Christian life was to become low. The Society was doing a great work in bringing together the Christian people into sympathy and touch with one another, not only in places where there were Christian communities, but also where there were isolated Christians. He humbly believed that the Society had been the means of fostering Christian life throughout the length and breadth of India amongst Europeans. Many of them had friends and relatives in India—he himself had a daughter there—and that imposed on them a double duty in regard to the Christian Europeans in that land. (Applause.) These were circumstances in which they felt a deeper sympathy with the work that was going on, not only in the mission field, but amongst the tea planters and the Christian workers all round. He thought they might be encouraged by the tone of the Report, which he thought was on the whole satisfactory. But when they were doing well, that was no reason why they should sit down and be idle: it should rather be an incentive to them to do more. (Applause.)

The Rev. David Reid, formerly of Calcutta and now of Leith, seconded the resolution. He expressed regret that Dr. Morrison, who was to have seconded the resolution, was unable to be present, and said that in the circumstances they would not expect from him anything in the nature of a long speech. He agreed with the Chairman that the Report was one on which they might congratulate themselves. He was not sure that the deficit of £27, which the Secretary had announced, was altogether a bad thing. If they had had £27 to the good, they might have been inclined to rest upon their oars, whereas the deficit should encourage them to renewed efforts. There was one satisfactory aspect of the finances which was well worth noting, and that was that since 1895 there had been a steady increase in the income. The income gathered at home had increased from £1000 to £1500. But, better than that, the income collected in India had increased from about £207 in 1895 to £788 in 1905. (Applause.) While the income at home had increased fifty per cent., the income in India had during the same period increased one hundred and sixty per cent. It was surely satisfactory that so large a proportion of their income was raised in India, and that that proportion was an increasing proportion. (Applause.) The steady increase in India justified the work that was being done there, and showed that the labours of our Agents were appreciated. He was not surprised that tributes should be paid to the work. During the twelve years in which he was minister to a Scottish congregation in Calcutta he had many opportunities of realising the character of the work which the Society was doing in India and the importance of it. He came in contact with many of the agents, and he found them to be men in earnest; men who were preaching the gospel faithfully. India had a high temperature physically, but the spiritual temperature among our fellow-countrymen in India was very apt to fall rather low. There was the surrounding paganism: there was the absence of so many of those helps that strengthened the Christian life at home—dangers and drawbacks which pointed to the work which the Society was doing as most urgently called for. Therefore he hoped, as the Secretary had said, that the income would go on increasing so that they might be able to engage in larger work. At present they were merely touching the fringe of it. There were many parts of India where their fellow-countrymen did not have the gospel preached to them. There were fields awaiting their entry if only the financial support necessary could be obtained. Might not some of those who at present gave 50s. double that amount, and those who gave half-a-crown give 5s. or 10s.? Most missionaries, he was glad to say, realised that anything that could be done for the Europeans in India directly told on the mission work in that great field. During the past two years he had had an opportunity of seeing something of what was being done on behalf of the Society at home. He had had abundant opportunity of seeing the work of their Secretary, Mr Stewart Thompson, and he wished to say that the Society was well-off in having a Secretary like him. He was a man of energy, a man of enthusiasm, and a man who believed with his whole soul in the work which the Society was doing. He was a man also with a persuasive way of getting people to make their contributions. (Applause and laughter.)

The Rev. J. M. Macphail, M.A., M.D., Santaliali, moved "That, as those of our countrymen in India, who are removed from the ordinary means of grace, have a strong claim on the sympathy and help of the Christian people at home, and as their number is constantly growing, the objects of this Society, which was founded to provide for the spiritual welfare of such persons, are deserving of a generous and increasing measure of support." He said it gave him great pleasure as an Indian missionary to have that opportunity of expressing his sympathy with and admiration of the work of the Society. In this, as in all other respects, they ought to take the first great Missionary to the Gentiles as their example and model, whose heart's desire and prayer to God for his fellow-countrymen was that they might be saved. They, whose main work was among the non-Christian population of India, must always cherish the same aspiration, and do what they could to help the work of such Societies as that.
He thought they ought to bear in mind that the Society had good material to work upon in our fellow-countrymen in India. He thought that sometimes remarks made about our fellow-countrymen in India were somewhat unjust. For that Rudyard Kipling was largely responsible. Take, for example, the lines:—

"Take me somewheres east o' Suez,
Where the best is like the worst,
Where there ain't no Ten Commandments,
And a man can raise a thirst."

The thirst was undeniable, but he believed that the Ten Commandments were, on the whole, as well observed among our fellow-countrymen in India as in Edinburgh or in Glasgow. They had to take Kipling with some reservation and qualification. He was not a photographer but a caricaturist, and they ought to make due allowance for him in the exercise of his genius. Dr Macphail said that he came home in one of the P. and O. steamers, which brought the largest number of Anglo-Indians that had ever sailed for home in one ship. There were 600 Europeans on board, and, on the whole, a better behaved set of people could not be found on any ocean-going vessel. Two services were held every Sunday, and they were well attended, and there was a prayer meeting every day. For his own part, he did not see a single case of drunkenness on the ship. There was a daily sweepstake, but, apart from that, gambling was confined to a small section of the passengers. On the whole, he was led to believe from what he saw in India that the Society had a promising field of work and good material to work upon. They had had men in India — workers not sent out by the Christian Church at home—servants of the Crown, who had done much for Christ's cause in that land. Sir Herbert Edwards was one. He founded the church mission in the Punjab, and in its day it achieved much success in that Province. Then there was Professor Cowell, who was a Professor in the Presidency College in Calcutta, and ultimately became Professor of Sanskrit in Cambridge University. He was said to be the best missionary in Calcutta in his day, and the impression left upon one after reading his life was, that if there were more men like him in India, missionaries would be a superfluity. These were a great many influences at work in India which seemed to be antagonistic to the cultivation of the Christian spirit, but at the same time there was another side to the question. There was the case of Donald Mitchell, who was sent out before the Church of Scotland sent out Alexander Duff. He was a student at Edinburgh University, but intellectual difficulties intervened, and he ceased his student life and joined the army. As a soldier in India he found the faith which he lost as a student of divinity in Edinburgh. He came back to Edinburgh, completed his studies, went back to India, and lived and died as a missionary in India. (Applause.) Even as regards those who did not live an earnest Christian life in India, they ought to be charitable in their judgment. There was no other class of men concerning whom they should more cultivate the spirit of Burns when he wrote—

"Then at the balance let's be mute;
We never can adjust it.
What's done we partly may compute,
But know not what's resisted."
countrymen. He told of the case of a mission chaplain in Assam who heard that his wife was dying in Edinburgh. Without being asked, the planters in that neighbour-hood collected £50 and placed the money in his hands in order that he might without delay proceed home to see his wife. That was one small token of the position that that man had made for himself in the hearts of those tea-planters. (Applause.) He quoted from Ralph Connor's "Sky Pilot," and said that the work being done by the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society in the Far East was similar to the work described as being done in the "Far West." It was a great, growing, and urgent work, for the adequate performance of which the resources of the Society were altogether insufficient. When returning home from India, and in the Mediterranean, he was pointing out the features of interest to his four-year-old boy. "That," he said, pointing to the Straits of Messina, "is where Italy is." "Isn't Scotland bigger than Italy?" said the boy. "No," replied Dr. Macphail. "Then," cried the boy, "why don't they make it bigger?" (Laughter.) He said, then, to the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society, "Why do you not make the work bigger?" The Society was doing splendid work in India, but, as the Secretary had said, it was only beginning.

The Rev. John Douglas, Nagpore, seconded the resolution as one whose work had not lain specially among his own fellow-countrymen. He spoke as one whose work might be helped or hindered by the religious attitude of his fellow-countrymen in India. It was true that it greatly surprised the people of India that they should send out missionaries to convert them. He was a bazaar preacher, and there was no objection more frequently brought against them than this—"You stick to your religion: it is good enough for you. Let us keep ours: it is good enough for us. Why should you leave your religion? Why should we leave ours?" The native people used the railway as an illustration, saying that if the different railways led to the same place, it did not matter much which railway was taken. Of course, if religion was simply a road, then it was difficult to answer the objection; and if religion was nothing more than rites or ceremonies, as the natives imagined, then the Europeans might have their rites and ceremonies and the Hindus and Mohammedans theirs, and all alike might be pleasing to God. But if religion, as the missionaries tried to impress upon them, meant character, if it meant conduct, then religion was something different. If, as it was set forth in Micah, "He hath shown thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God," then it was a thing of enforced obligation, and there could only be one religion. And they tried to teach the Indian people that Christianity was the religion that told them how to choose good and how to become like God.

Mr Douglas concluded by paying a further tribute to the work which the Society was doing.

The resolution was adopted.

A Collection was then taken which realised £7, 2s.

The Rev. A. S. Crichton, Bombay, the new Indian Secretary (who was unexpectedly present, having been invalidated home before taking up his duties), moved "That the Honorary Secretaries, Treasurers, Lady Collectors, and that valuable agency known as the Anglo-Indian Ladies' Union, and other helpers be thanked for their labours of love, and that the Directors and Office-bearers be re-appointed with power to add to their number." He said that he knew the work of the Society, so far as he did know it, entirely from the output of the machine. He knew next to nothing of the work of the Collectors and others who were engaged at home. But perhaps a word of thanks came more appropriately from those who received the benefit of the labours of the Collectors. The Anglo-Indian community which he had the honour to represent gave them their sincerest thanks for that work, of which perhaps none of them would be privileged to see the fruit, but which, sown in faith, would find its fruit after many days. There were two things which those who saw the Society in action could tell them about. The one was the need of the work and the other was the success that attended it. Of the need of the work, too much could not be said.
All the previous speakers had insisted on it. The work which he tried to do in Bombay was identical with that which the agents of the Society were trying to do. The Society was not necessary in the large centres like Bombay and Calcutta, because there the Churches had ministers and other agents. But outside, and beyond the province of many of the churches, lay the sphere of the labours of the Society. The only work which the United Free Church did for Europeans in that part of India was confined to the small centre called the city of Bombay and the island. When they got beyond that, where there were many Scotsmen in all grades of life, the Church at home to which these men belonged seemed to take no care over their spiritual welfare. He found it somewhat difficult to understand how some of the home churches did not attend in India to the sons and daughters of their faithful members. If anything said at that meeting should impress upon the home churches the necessity of taking up this work, a very great service would have been done. Mr Crichton described some of the services in which he had taken part in out of the way districts in India. The agents had to preach sometimes to as few as four or five, and sometimes twenty-five or more, just wherever they could get a few gathered together. As to the success of the work, it was not easy for an outsider to speak, but they would take into account the great difficulty that had to be encountered, and if they did that they would see that the success had been greater than could have been anticipated. If any amendment was needed, and every good work needed amendment, it was only to be found in increased activity at home. The Society’s agents could only go a certain length, and it was only as they increased the power at home that the power abroad could be increased. (Applause.)

The Rev. William Stevenson seconded. He urged that those who knew about the work of the Society should urge its needs upon their friends. He was sure they ought to get big subscriptions from those who were interested in India, and if they got an increase in the funds they would be able to do more of the great work that was waiting for the Society. He spoke of the losses which the Society had sustained, and he urged that others should take the places of those who had fallen out of the ranks. The number of Europeans in India was increasing with the expansion of commerce, and the need for the work of the Society would be even greater in future than it had been in the past. The churches would be plainly neglecting a great duty if they did not keep our fellow-countrymen in India supplied with the means of grace. (Applause.)

The Rev. Mr Macleroy, after moving a vote of thanks to the President, pronounced the Benediction, and the meeting thereafter separated.
CONTRIBUTIONS FOR 1905-6.

Special Notice.—The Financial year at Home ends 31st March, and the Treasurer earnestly desires that all contributions and collections be sent in not later than March 1st. Several contributions are placed under London, Edinburgh, or Glasgow, when sent from places where there are not Associations. Lady collectors are requested to send their Collecting Books with remittances.

MEMORANDA.

I. The Annual Report is sent directly by post to Subscribers, whose addresses are in the hands of the Secretary. To others, copies will be sent through Local Secretaries, Treasurers, or Collectors.

II. Donations or Subscriptions will be thankfully received by any of the Treasurers or Collectors; or by Miss Foley, 9 Duke Street, Adelphi, London, W.C.

III. Contributions may be paid into the Society's Account in the Commercial Bank, Edinburgh, or to Messrs Barclay & Co., 1 Pall Mall East, London, S.W. The Secretary, when advised of such payments, will send receipts.

IV. It would be well if designations were given, as Mrs or Miss Rev. or Esq., &c.

V. The financial year closes in India 31st December, and at Home 31st March; and Contributions received after these dates will be reckoned as belonging to the following year.

VI. Lady Collectors are requested to send their Collecting Books with remittances.
