Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society

Thirty-Ninth Annual Report 1909-10

Our Countrymen in India
THE ANGLO-INDIAN EVANGELISATION SOCIETY is a continuation of the ANGLO-INDIAN CHRISTIAN UNION. The former name marked its catholicity, which still remains, the latter indicates its work. It also includes the ASSAM MISSION, associated with the name of its founder, the late Colonel Foquet; and the "WINTER MISSION," first suggested by the late Lady Kinnaird

OBJECTS OF THE SOCIETY.

I. The maintenance of an unsectarian itinerant evangelisation among the widely scattered groups of Europeans and Eurasians in India, otherwise destitute of Gospel ordinances, at Railway Stations, on Tea Estates, &c. This is the chief object of the Society.

II. The appointment of gifted Evangelists to visit the chief centres of population and influence, bringing the Gospel to bear, apart from denominational distinctions, on all the Churches and Missions, and on the educated English-speaking Natives. This was the special object of the "Winter Mission."

The following is a form of Bequest or Legacy, which may be adopted:

"Item, I give and bequeath the sum of to the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society, and the Receipt of the Treasurer of the Society, for the time being, shall be a sufficient discharge therefor."

GENERAL REPORT FOR 1909-10.

DURING the past year there has been much cause for gratitude to God, and those who have been "helping together by prayer" feel that His guiding hand has been upon the work and workers for good. A step has been made in the right direction with three new workers added to the staff in India, and it is hoped that during the coming year a still further development may be made. The call comes from several needy fields where our countrymen are much neglected. Assam has been on the hearts of many for a long time, and letters have recently been received from Rev. J. Pengwern Jones and Rev. W E. White, who know the field well, urging the claims of that great province, with Cachar, Sylhet, and Manipur, where there are "many lonely hearts," and where an Evangelist could find ample scope for work.

Rev. John Stewart, Hon. Secretary of the Madras Committee, and Mr Robert Stanes visited Rev. John Redmond's district, and consulted with the planters regarding the future of the work. Meetings were held in nine different centres in Coorg and Mysore. Resolutions were passed by the planters commending the work which Mr Redmond is doing, and urging that this work which has been carried on so well during the past five years should not be allowed to drop. As a result of this, Mr Redmond has decided to remain on until the end of 1911, and the Directors hope that those who have so kindly assisted in financing this enterprise will continue their valued support. Mr Redmond's district, however, is far too large for one man, and an urgent appeal has just reached the Directors from the planters, the Wesleyan Mysore Synod, and the Madras Committee of the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society, all of whom are keenly interested in the matter, asking that another man be sent to take up the work in Coorg, which would allow Mr Redmond to devote his time to Mysore. It is suggested in the appeal that, as a large proportion of the planters are Scotch, the Presbyterian Churches might be asked to unite in sending out a man, but the work would be continued on the same inter-denominational lines as formerly. Mr Stewart also urges the need for another Evangelist on the Madras Southern Mahratta Railway, with its 2000 miles of rail and only one worker.

Rev. E. Palgrave Davy, of Simla, one of the Society's honorary Evangelists, with great kindness and zeal, and at no cost to the Society, has made three extensive tours in the Punjab, covering some 4500 miles of railway, and has sent the Directors a detailed report, in which he points out that two men are needed for this large field.

These are just one or two of the most needy places. Many others could be mentioned, and surely there is a plain call for a further immediate advance. It is hoped the right workers will be raised up and the necessary funds forthcoming very soon. The money has been coming in very, very slowly. The friends at home do not seem fully to realize the supreme importance of this work which, as the late Rev. Dennis Osborne said, “lies at the very threshold of all Mission work in India,” and which has been the means, under God, of bringing help and blessing to many who have gone from our own homes and firesides, and are leading inexpressibly lonely lives in the remote parts of our great Dependency. Will all those who are interested in the welfare of India earnestly pray that the hearts of God’s people may be touched and the means be liberally supplied for the still further development of the work.

Rev. J. R. Hewison and Mr and Mrs Arnold Thomas sailed for India in December, and after arriving in Bombay and meeting with the Committee there, Mr and Mrs Thomas proceeded to their district on the Bombay, Baroda and Central Indian Railway, with headquarters at Abu Road. They received a hearty welcome throughout the district, and encouraging letters have been received telling of the commencement of their work. When Mr Hewison sailed it was undecided where he would take up work. Several needy fields were open, and after much consultation, the Bombay Committee decided that he should devote his time to the Raichur branch of the Great Indian Peninsular Railway. Mr Hewison has succeeded in forming a representative committee in his district, as Mr Palgrave Davy has also done at Simla.

Mr John M’Dowall, with his wife and family, are expected home at the end of April. Mr M’Dowall has done nine years good work for the Society in India, where he has earned the respect and affection of all in his district. After a much needed rest he hopes to do some deputation work before returning to India. Mr and Mrs Leish Gordon have been appointed to carry on the work during Mr and Mrs M’Dowall’s absence.

Rev. F. W. Adams, after a long period of service, has retired, and has accepted the temporary appointment of the Baptist Church at Allahabad. Mr Adams was presented with a suitable gratuity by the Directors on his retirement. It is hoped that many years of useful service are still in store for him.

Rev. A. S. Chrirtenton has again carried on the Secretarial work in India with much acceptance throughout the year. The reports of the Evangelists are full of interest. The only regret is that so much has to be condensed into so small a space.

A large number of meetings have been held in the interests of the Society in various parts of England and Scotland during the year. A number of these have been Lantern meetings, which were even more successful than the previous year. The Directors are indebted to Rev. Arnold Boyd, Rev. David Reid, and Mr Andrew Stewart for kindly lecturing in a number of places, and also to the Ministers and Christian workers throughout the country who have so kindly helped in arranging meetings.

The Directors desire to take this opportunity of thanking the many friends at home and in India for their valued help in the furtherance of the work, the various local Committees, the Anglo-Indian Ladies’ Union, the Secretaries, Treasurers, and the staff of Lady Collectors, which has been maintained and increased during the past year, and the honorary Auditors at home and in India. The Directors are also indebted to the Railway Companies in India for passes for the Evangelists. If it had not been for facilities granted in this way the work would have been very much curtailed, and it is hoped the Railway Companies will continue this kindness.

Mr J. B. Crichton, who has so ably carried on the Treasurer’s work in India for some time past, is home on furlough, and Mr F. J. Page, Queen’s Mansions, Fort, Bombay, has kindly taken his place during his absence.

A very successful Sale of Work was arranged in December, at 12 Pembridge Place, W., by Mrs Orr, who, with much zeal and devotion, carries on the work of the Anglo-Indian Ladies’ Union; and Mrs Cumming and the friends at Hubli, India, also arranged a Sale of Work there. The Directors cordially thank all who assisted in these efforts to raise funds for the Society, and hope that others will be encouraged to assist in this way in other places.

W. S. T.

Just as we are going to press the news has reached us of the death, with startling suddenness, of our beloved Sovereign, King Edward the Seventh, Emperor of India. Throughout the length and breadth of his vast Dominions the news will be received with feelings of deepest sorrow, but nowhere more than throughout the Indian Empire, where, by his tour, the late King became known as an actual personality, and by his courtesy and kindliness endeared himself to those who were afterwards to be his loyal and loving subjects. His name will go down to posterity as the peace-loving and peace-making King; and all will sincerely sympathise with his beloved wife, Queen Alexandra, and the other members of the Royal household, in the irreparable loss which they have sustained,

Feelings of deepest loyalty will go forth from all connected with our Society to our new King-Emperor and Queen-Empress, King George the Fifth and Queen Mary, and many prayers will ascend to the King of Kings that they may long be spared, and that grace and wisdom may be granted to them to govern wisely and well that mighty Eastern Empire, which we hold as a sacred trust for the Lord “until He shall reign Whose right it is to reign.”

“God save the King.”
GLIMPSES OF WORK FROM THE FIELD.

Rev. E. PALGRAVE DAVY, Simla, writes:—"The main portion of the North-Western Railway lies in the Punjab, and includes an area, both in shape and size, very much the same as England. Over the lines of this district, during the cold season now closing, I have travelled 3500 miles, and on the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway about 1000 miles, comprising three separate tours. I would much like to have given more time to travelling in these Provinces, but the claims of my church work in Simla would not allow.

"The Punjab is a large and needy field. Numerous are the small neglected communities scattered over this important Province. In an old report of the A.I.E.S. I see that from 1876 to 1879 the Rev. J. Nelson laboured in this district. But from that time, now thirty years ago, I do not know of any serious and continuous effort being undertaken under the auspices of the Society. Two men I am sure could find ample work here, giving all their time throughout the year.

"I have, in these tours, gone over the ground rather hurriedly, my object being to ascertain the needs of the Punjab from the standpoint of the A.I.E.S. rather than to stay at every small place visiting and conducting Services. To do the latter in a thorough manner would have occupied a very much longer time.

"A first visit to a place is rather a trying experience. At least I have found it so. At the station I make my first enquiry, probably from the stationmaster, as soon as the train has gone and he has leisure to answer questions. In many instances this official is a native, but he is in a position to give useful information concerning the locality, and is invariably courteous and obliging. As the result of the conversation I decide what family I will make for first, and the stationmaster is always good enough to instruct a subordinate to accompany me on my rounds. Arriving at the house I send my card in. Then, usually, there is a period of waiting and I am invited in. Reserve soon passes off, and generally a pleasant interview follows, closing often with worship, when other members of the family have been called in.

"Some families one visits, occupy a good social position and are in affluent circumstances, but these form only a small proportion. A second visit to a place is a very different thing. You feel at home at once. You know the stationmaster, and can address him by name.
You know just where you will have to spend the night, and no ice has to be broken in paying pastoral calls.

"I truly feel for these neglected people, and am glad to have been able to do something to minister to their needs. The field is a large one, and travelling is sometimes irksome on account of broken sleep.
The train may be due at a station at any time of the night, and the same thing applies of course to the hours of departure.

"A few outlying places are visited regularly every month or six weeks, on a week-day. Others once in a few months, some once in a year or two. One lady told me she had lived in a certain Station, with a dozen families, for three years, and no minister had visited it during that time.

"The Kalka-Simla Railway, the East Indian Railway, the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway, and the North-Western Railway have kindly granted me free passes for these tours. But the manager of the North-Western, on which line I have done most of the travelling, tells me they are increasingly reluctant to grant these passes. They would be more disposed to do so if the A.I.E.S. can appoint a man who will travel during the hot season ministering to the people, as well as the cold.

"In conclusion, I am happy to say that I have, at the request of the Directors, been successful in forming a local Committee in Simla for the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society."

Rev. M. B. FULLER writes:—"Our English work at Bhusawal is almost entirely among railway people, and I am glad to report that it has continued throughout the year; sometimes with seemingly little interest, but during the last three months it has greatly revived, and two new Missionaries, Messrs Garrison and Cox, have taken it up in earnest, and there has been a great increase of interest. Mr Stanes, the children's Missioner, visited the Station, when the little chapel was crowded, a number requiring to stand.

"The regular Services are the morning Sunday School, the Gospel Service in the evening, the Wednesday evening and C.E. meetings, and Choir practice.

"At Shegaon, meetings have been carried on regularly by Mr and Mrs Hogberg, and although there are few people the meetings have been pleasant and profitable. Mr Hogberg has been transferred to Bhusawal, and Shegaon closed as a Station, but the Missionaries at Khamgaon, will, I hope, be able to keep up some of the meetings. A Sunday School has been held near the railway station at Ahmedabad by our ladies, and it has been very well attended. Some meetings have been held at Amraoti, and at Akola, for the few English people, but since Mr Erickson's death the work at Amraoti has not been kept up as before. Mr Moyser is now stationed there, and I hope more can be done.

"Mr A. Johnson, of Pachora, has been most faithful to the one or two families there, having meetings for them very regularly, which have been much appreciated."
Rev. J. R. Hewison has done excellent work since he arrived in Bombay early in January 1910. He first went with Mr Arnold Thomas to introduce him to his district on the Bombay, Baroda, and Central Indian Railway, where Mr Hewison had worked many years before. He then had two prospecting tours on the Great Indian Peninsular Railway, and after consultation with the Bombay Committee it was decided that his district should be the Bombay to Raichur section of the Great Indian Peninsular Railway. He writes:—"One gratifying feature in connection with my visits to different places is the number of sincere Christian people to be met with, who are really concerned for the spiritual welfare of their neighbours. I was able to enlist the sympathy of several of these, and to take some steps towards the formation of a District Committee, the members of which pledge themselves to look after the work in their own district and to secure financial support for the Society. The tours were very interesting, and I hope some good was accomplished. I am greatly impressed with the need of the district, and the field is a splendid one for work."

Rev. J. Pengwern Jones, Sylhet, writes:—"I wish I could have done more work among the Tea Planters in this neighbourhood. I had a hearty welcome wherever I went, and we have made arrangements to have regular Services in several centres during 1910.

"In April I attended the All-India Soldiers' Convention in Belgaum, and had the privilege of addressing several meetings of soldiers and others, and also of visiting several families. Some of the soldiers are very earnest Christians. It was a joy to spend a few days with them. A soldier must be an out-and-out Christian or not at all. It was interesting to notice the respect which the soldiers paid to those who had stood the test of persecution in the barrack-room, and how they despised backsliders. What a change would come over India if the European soldiers in this Empire were earnest, active Christians. On my way back I spent a Sunday in Bombay, and had several Services there in the English churches and among the soldiers.

"In May I visited Shillong, and had the pleasure of preaching at the Presbyterian Church, and visiting several families.

"In August I spent eight days in Naini Tal, holding Services three times daily for the Europeans. It is not easy to have English Services on week-days in a place like Naini Tal, which is the summer seat of the N. W. P. Government, and as for daily Morning Services, many said that it was out of the question, that no one would attend; but so many prayers had been offered by the few faithful ones, and they had worked so faithfully and earnestly that we had a large congregation every morning and evening for eight days, and a crowded Young People's Service every afternoon. We had also some Drawing-room Services in order to reach those who could not come to the church. This shows us how willing people are to attend Services when they see that the Christians are in earnest. If Christians obeyed God by doing more definite aggressive work, we would see more fruit. We all felt that God was with us at Naini Tal.

"The Conventions at Darjeeling and Lanowli were for Europeans, and were better attended than ever, not only by Missionaries, but by others also. One Service was held daily for the Europeans at the Jubbulpore Convention, and a large number of the Station people turned out. When will the day come when we shall have religious Melas (Conventions) among railway people, tea planters, civilians, &c., &c., just as they have Social Melas now? These Conventions among Indian Christians have become very popular the last few years, and have done much good. Why should we not have similar gatherings among Europeans?

"The books, 'Traveller's Guide, kindly sent me by the Secretary, have been much appreciated by the Europeans in isolated places.
They are attractive, and the print is clear, and to those who have not much time for reading and can only take up a book at odd moments, the 'Traveller's Guide, with its short articles and stories, is very suitable. I have distributed a large number of them.

"We are full of hope and joy as we face this new year, because we see that the Lord is opening so many doors for work among the Europeans, and we know that a blessing on the Europeans of India means a sure blessing for the Indians also."

Rev. S. J. Jones, Dinapore, writes:—"My parish is a big one, extending over 470 miles on the East Indian Railway and a portion of the Bengal North Western Railway. I have traversed this district regularly month by month throughout the year. Services have been held in Institutes, Clubs, Bungalows, and Waiting-rooms; and on almost every occasion when I have gone to a Station I have visited every European resident. The work has not by any means been confined to the railway. Through the kindness of the people I have had the use of carriages, trolleys, horses, and even motor cars, and thus have been able to visit even the most lonely places. There have been several outstanding cases of conversion, and much has been done in the way of cultivating a spirit of prayerfulness and the habit of Bible reading among lonely individuals and isolated communities. In other small places visited once a month Divine Service has been held, and in most cases these Services are regularly attended and much appreciated. During the year I came in contact with more new comers from Great Britain than I ever met with in one year before.
Some of these were connected with Church or Sunday School at home.
What a power for good they will be if they continue to walk worthily!
It is a joy to visit all such regularly, or, where that is not possible, to correspond with them. Friends at home, in some instances, wrote telling me of those who were coming out, which is an excellent plan; in other cases I found them out myself. In addition to my spiritual work I have travelled a great deal collecting funds trying to increase the income of the Society."
Mr JOHN McDOWALL, Podanur, writes:—"The work of the past year has been a continuation of previous efforts in visiting out-stations and in preaching the Word. The needs of the district have in no sense lessened but increased from year to year, and the methods pursued by the Society to meet these are the only possible methods in view of the situation. The work has difficulties hard to realise at a distance, and when one is confronted with the apathy and indifference often displayed, and is tempted to despondency, a splendid antidote is to imagine the district without the help the Society affords. A general review of the past, too, when the mind gathers up incidents and conversations spread over a lengthened period, forces the conviction that the work has not been in vain, and that sheaves have been gathered to the glory of God. And then when added to what the mind can recall of definite blessing, which has stood the test of time, we put the unseen influence of Christian testimony and divine truth, we are reminded of the Scriptural injunction and promise 'Cast thy bread upon the waters; for thou shalt find it after many days.'

"Then the visits of the Evangelists to Out-stations keep alive the habit of attendance at Divine worship, so that when transferred back to the populated city the practice of previous days may be continued in the various churches to which they formerly belonged. This is a view of the work of the Society in one of its minor aspects only, but it has a more definite mission to perform. At some of the Stations I have ministered the word to people, the larger part of whose lives have been spent at places more or less remote from the centres of population, who in some cases have had absolutely no other opportunity for years on end of attending any service but that offered by my visit.

"While providing opportunities for hearing the Word of God, I constantly remind myself that these should only be a means to an end, not for the maintenance of a mere profession of faith, but for the purpose of leading the soul to a knowledge of God and a personal trust in the Saviour, and I am glad to be able to report a number of such instances.

"One case was that of a young man and his sister. After being transferred here, they attended the services, and were led to see their need of a Saviour. Shortly thereafter the brother went on leave for a month, and determined that when away he would decide for Christ and on his return inform his sister and her husband of what he had done. The sister, ignorant of her brother's intentions, decided to use his absence for the same purpose. The result was that when the brother on his return told the sister of what he had done, he found her with an exactly similar story to relate. Both are now helpers in the work.

"Another instance is that of the wife of a railwayman, a Roman Catholic, who was led to see the folly of her previous belief. Various circumstances contributed to this, but one of the meetings I held there was the first Protestant Service she had ever attended. This was no case of a mere change of profession, but one of true apprehension of what life in Christ meant."
"While providing opportunities for hearing the Gospel at the various Stations, we also make a special effort at Podanur among the children. Much of the indifference of the later years of life, and the prevailing ignorance of the Word of God, is easily traceable to a neglect of Biblical instruction when young. As far as possible, therefore, we seek to instruct the young in the Sunday School and Children’s Meetings, and so to present Christ, that they may have a clear understanding of His Redemption ere they step out into life in this country, fraught with greater temptations and disadvantages to spiritual life than any which confront the children of the Homeland."

Rev. J. PARKER, Bellary, writes:—"In looking back over the year now closing, I am thankful for the opportunities given for proclaiming the Gospel, not only in the Services held at the various Stations, but also in the homes of the people and in the trains; and from the interest and attention shown on almost all occasions, one can only hope that the work has not been in vain. Our honorary Evangelist, Mr. Slade, in addition to his duties as a foreman in the railway workshops, finds the necessary time for study and preparation for the Services held every week at Hubli. It is a pity there were not more of this type of voluntary workers. The other stations in my district are almost entirely dependant on my monthly visits, which seem to be much appreciated, as I am often asked to come more frequently. Many of these would be entirely neglected spiritually if it were not for the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society."

Rev. JOHN REDMOND, Mysore, writes:—"Of the five years during which the work among the planters has been carried on the year now ending has been the best. More visits have been paid, more Services held, and, it is hoped, more good accomplished than in any of the preceding years. This was possible on account of a growing sympathy with the work on the part of the planters.

"I paid two visits to Coorg, one in September last and the other in January and February of this year, and spent nine busy but happy weeks working amongst the planters there. The Services in S. Coorg were on both occasions very well attended, and were, I believe, successful in the best sense of the word. In February I held my first public services in Santikoppa and Somwarpet, and the attendances were good—all the resident planters, except two in one of these centres, being present at the Service.

"The A.I.E. Society sent Rev. John Stewart of Madras and Mr Robert Stanes of Coimbatore as a deputation to visit the different centres in Coorg and Mysore to confer with the planters about the future of the work after I leave. Unfortunately, the motor car in which they were travelling broke down in Coorg, and they were able to visit only that part of the field. I felt it would be a mistake if the conferences in the Mysore were postponed or given up, as I knew the planters were prepared to speak their mind on the matter, and I believed they would say the right thing. So I decided to proceed and hold the conferences myself. It was a great struggle to get over the distances (70 miles having been arranged for one day, 60 miles for another, and so on), and keep the appointments as arranged for the motor trip. But by means of horse and mule flesh and with the help of a bicycle and bullocks, and by travelling at night as well as in the day, I was able to hold all the conferences at the appointed times. On the first day I was thrown severely from my pony, which, going at a fast pace, came down with me on the road; and on the third day I was thrown on my head out of a tonga drawn by mules. When taking a sharp corner at a good speed the driver ran one wheel up on a little wall, and the tonga went over with a crash. It was not seriously damaged, and after a little time we got it on its wheels again and started once more.

"Meetings were held in nine different centres in the Mysore, and at each of them the planters passed resolutions, saying that they desired the work to be made permanent, and pledging themselves to contribute towards its support.

"Three new centres in the Mysore and two in Coorg have been opened for Services, and the planters in S. Mysore are going to build a Church in Saklaspur.

"There is one event that tinges all the success of the year's work with sadness. A planter, who was a man of much public spirit and was greatly liked by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances, met with a carriage accident one evening as he was returning from a visit to a neighbouring planter. Two operations were performed, but of no avail. After lingering for some days he peacefully passed away, and was laid to rest in the little cemetery here. He was called away in his prime, and his loss will be felt for many a day to come."

Rev. J. SHAW, Quetta, writes:—"My most interesting work has been at Chaman, the extreme Frontier Station on the N.W. Railway. The railway community here consists of the station-master and his wife, and the locomotive shedman, or driver in charge, and his wife; the military element (European) consists of the Colonel Commandant and some six British Officers of the Native Corps in Garrison, of whom half are nearly always on leave, as the station is so isolated and life there is so dreary. The late Commandant, who has for years been a subscriber to the funds of the Society, with Mrs Southey have always been most earnest Christian workers, and have constantly and faithfully helped the work of the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society. My Services, whether conducted in the railway waiting-room, or in the Commandant's house or garden, as was the practice in summer, were always attended by Colonel and Mrs Southey; there was generally a congregation, sometimes as many as a dozen, and once seventeen persons. During the year between fifty and sixty Gospel Services in connection with the Society were held."
Mr H. T. SLADE, Hubli, writes:—"With deep gratitude to God, we look back upon another year's labours; assisted with His benediction, and cheered by His Divine presence. Wearisome and trying has sometimes been the burden and heat of toil; but we rejoice to own His bright smile on our work. Evangelistic Services have been regularly held each Sabbath at 9 a.m., and the attendance has been very good. The Sabbath School meets every Sunday at 5.15 p.m., and our scholars are devoted to their school. Some of our children lately gave their hearts into Jesus' keeping, and we long for the prayers of the friends at home, that many others may be led very soon to follow their example. Our Young People's Christian Union Meetings are held on Fridays at 5.30 p.m., and our Weekly Prayer Meeting on Saturday at 6 p.m., and are well attended. A most enjoyable hour is always spent at the footstool of God, and this we acknowledge is the source of our strength. Rev. J. Parker once a month as a rule conducts a Communion Service at the Saturday night Prayer Meeting, and we are thus kept in touch with church life. Mrs Cumming and Miss Omond have rendered very valuable assistance, and deserve the Directors' grateful thanks. Miss Omond, who has so faithfully laboured with us here for many years, is shortly to leave India for good. We shall miss her so much, and cannot afford to lose her. We all pray that God will continually bless her in the work for Him at home. Once again I have to thank Mrs Adolphus Orr, and the members of the Anglo-Indian Ladies' Union for their kind gift of Bibles for our School. I also wish to acknowledge the untiring efforts of my dear wife, as Hon. Treasurer for this Station."

Mr ARNOLD THOMAS, Abu Road, writes:—"We came here on February 26th, and are still hoping to get a bungalow. The people all seem anxious for us to come amongst them, and there is plenty for one to do."

"We have started a Sunday School here in Abu Road, and have thirty-three names on the register; some are away now to school, but there were about twenty-seven children last Sunday. My wife started a Band of Hope on Friday evenings, and the children quite enjoy coming. The parents also much appreciate the work amongst the children. We have had some old story books given to us, and are starting a Children's Library. I wish we could get more."

"On March 21st we gave a Social Evening to all the women in the Station, about fifty. Several people lent chairs, tables, rugs, &c., and we turned the seats out and made the Union Hall look like a drawing-room. We had refreshments and music and recitations, and closed with a grand programme of short addresses, solos, and recitations. They all thanked us very much. On Tuesday we had the children for tea and games, &c., which they also enjoyed immensely.

"We had a special service here on Good Friday, and on Easter Sunday at Ahmedabad; this week I am expecting to go to Ajmere."

It is a great pleasure to report that the "Sale of Work," held last November at 12 Pembridge Place, Bayswater, W., was very successful. Sincere and grateful thanks are offered to the members of the "Ladies’ Union," who sent most generous contributions, and to all friends who kindly came and made purchases. The sum realised was £45, 10s. Through the kindness of Miss Foley, who has offered to display the work left over at another sale held once a month, some articles have been disposed of, and it is hoped all the goods may be sold gradually, to add to the funds of the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society.

Shortly before Christmas 1909, parcels of Bibles and Testaments were sent to India to be distributed amongst children belonging to the Sunday Schools, and others who did not possess any. These gifts are much appreciated, and we deem it a great privilege to have the opportunity of sending out the Word of God to India.

Contributions from the Anglo-Indian Ladies’ Union.

APPENDIX.

The Thirty-Ninth Annual Meeting of the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society was held on Thursday afternoon, May 5th, in the Goold Hall, 5 St. Andrew Square, Edinburgh. The Right Hon. Lord Polwarth presided.

There was a well-filled hall, and the following gentlemen accompanied the Chairman to the platform:—Sir Alex. R. Simpson, Rev. Dr Revie, of Wardha; Rev. Frank Ashcroft; Mr John M'Dowall, of Podanur; Rev. T. H. Greig, Rev. J. Laing, Rev. J. Morrison, D.D., Rev. P. R. Mackay, D.D., Rev. D. Reid, Mr Thos. Matheson, Mr Andrew Stewart, Mr W. Stewart Thompson.

The proceedings opened with prayer, offered by the Rev. James Laing, of Dysart, late of Bombay.

Apologies for absence were intimated from Lord and Lady Ardwell, Sir A. H. L. Fraser, Rev. Dr Wann, Rev. G. L. Pagan, Rev. Dr Geo. Smith, Rev. Dr J. Robertson, Rev. Arnold Boyd, Rev. John Forgan, Rev. J. Harry Miller, Col. Scone, Dr M'Donald, Rev. J. N. Ogilvie, Mr Horatius Bonar, Mr Duncan M'Laren, Mr J. B. Crichton, Mrs Wauchope of Niddrie, Mrs Robert Arbuthnot, and others.

Mr W Stewart Thompson, General Secretary and Treasurer for the Society, in presenting the Annual Report, said he had great pleasure in doing so, as it contained much that was interesting. Lord Kinnaird, who had kindly gone over the proof, wrote "The Report is a cheering one," and Rev. John Forgan, "The Report is excellent, stating well the need and claims of the Society, and backed up by interesting information from the field of work." He hoped, therefore, that it would be the means of awakening much fresh interest in the work. The Report was to appear in a new garb this year. He had endeavoured, with the sanction of the Directors, to improve its appearance, and the reports of the Evangelists would appear in larger type. He presented the Financial Statement, which showed that the expenditure for the year was about £70 more than the ordinary income. He estimated, on the present basis, that the expenditure for the year just entered upon would be about £250 more than the ordinary income of the past year. He therefore urged all who were interested in the good work of the Society to do their utmost to increase the income, so that the ordinary expenditure would not only be met, but a further advance made.

Lord Polwarth said the Report gave a good account of the work which had been done in India. It would be useless for him to attempt an analysis of the Report of which they had heard extracts from the Secretary. All of them would enjoy the perusal of what was contained in it. He was very fond of natural history. In studying natural history he was sometimes quite overpowered by the marvels being carried on by creatures that were very little seen, or seldom seen at all, who never uttered a sound, and carried on their work for the most part in the darkness of the night. There were some societies, of which this was one, which carried on a great work silently, quietly, in a country where there was a great deal of the darkness of heathendom, and just as the work which is done by those little creatures of God’s handiwork, so the work that was being carried on by this Society was none the less one of the greatest. To the little creatures God spoke and said “Fear not,” and to a society like this He said “Fear not! though you are not a large society in the Christian world yet you are doing great things.” Those little animals made transformations in this globe greater far than the most magnificent works of man’s genius, skill, and power. This Society, which had been working away for thirty-nine years in India, was doing a great work. It first of all did a great work directly amongst the Europeans who were scattered about over that great country, India, who have perforce to live amongst people who were not the same as themselves and were living isolated and far away from, in many cases, the means of grace, and who were longing for Christian sympathy, and help, and comfort. This Society had brought that to these people. It had done a great work all over India. From the Report would be seen the immense distances which were traversed by the Agents of the Society, and it would be realised what a work was being carried on by them. They could read in the Report of the Agents’ visits to lonely men to whom no Christian minister or clergyman had been for many a day or ever. The Speaker had a son in South Africa who wrote to him of the deplorable condition in which many cultured young men were placed, with no means of grace for them anywhere within reach, and thought that it was such a pity that more was not being done to reach them. Some of them shoot themselves through sheer despondency. Some of them fall into evil habits. Something more should be done for these people. Happy were those who had good wives to keep them and had friends round them. By the efforts of this Society and other agencies these people were reached, and helped, and comforted by God’s servants, Christian men who travelled up and down in India carrying on the good work. It was a work that well deserved the sympathy and support of all Christians, especially those who had friends and relatives in India. He had heard something from a relative of his own of the long railway journeys through the Punjab. For the railwaymen they must see what a need there was for a kindly word and a helping hand. And there were the tea planters and the men engaged in the Forestry Department to be helped by this Christian work. He commended the Society which had done its work so quietly, though none the less efficiently, and so consistently for thirty-nine years with the comparatively limited amount at its disposal. He had pleasure in moving the adoption of the following resolution:—"That the Report, extracts of which have just been read, be adopted as the Thirty-ninth Annual Report of the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society, and that it be printed and circulated, and that the Directors and Office-Bearers be re-appointed, with power to add to their number."

The Rev. Dr Revie, Wardha, India, in seconding the motion, said that the work of the Society was a work which Missionaries fully realised the need of, and the value of which they appreciated. He would speak of it from the point of the Missionary stationed in the district amongst a very sparse European population. In the large cities like Bombay and Madras, where there were large European populations, church and congregational work was carried on much on the same lines as at home, and all were more or less within the reach of religious influences, but throughout the country there were thousands of their countrymen who were stationed in small towns or on plantations where there might be no other European, or at most only two or three. What that meant to them was difficult to realise unless from personal experience. It meant isolation, absence of Christian fellowship, no church connection, or at best the companionship of those who were indifferent to religion, or were actively hostile, often the companionship of the vicious. As a medical man and as a Padre he had been frequently consulted, and had received many confidences from Europeans, and without violating these confidences he might say that they revealed to him in a way nothing else could have done, how much these young men stood in need of a friendly, guiding hand, of the many temptations to which they had been exposed, and to which they had so frequently succumbed. Anything which could be done to help these young men was important, for each one saved from worldliness and indifference became a source of strength to others. Every European in India was a Missionary either for or against Christianity. In their work amongst non-Christians they found that their words, their preaching, had less effect than the influence of the lives they lived, the example they set. In their hospitals he believed it was the daily conduct of their Christian assistants and surgeons, more than their preaching, which led their patients to an appreciation of their religion. And so the Europeans who went to India on Government service or on business, being, in the eyes of the non-Christians, representatives of their religion, the lives they led, and their example influenced those around for or against Christianity. So he pleaded for this Society in its work amongst these men, not only for their own sakes, but also as a Missionary who would like to see all the Europeans around, a help rather than a hindrance to the spread of the Gospel. There was a large staff of Government chaplains in India, in connection principally with the Church of England, who were there permanently for the Christian servants of the Government. These men resided in the large towns, and were supposed to visit once a quarter at least the various district headquarters. At most of these headquarter stations churches had been built by the Government for the use of its Protestant servants, but unfortunately in most cases they had been consecrated by the Church of England, and were therefore closed except to Episcopally ordained Clergymen or to Laymen of the Church of England. Presbyterian Missionaries living in such stations, when they wished to hold a service for their European neighbours, must hold it either in the Mission Hall or in their bungalow. To those really anxious to attend such a service neither of these alternatives might prove an obstacle, but the very people the Missionaries wished to influence might make it an excuse for not coming. In an informal way these difficulties were sometimes got over. On one occasion he remembered, in Wardha, they had a larger number of people than usual stationed there who were religiously inclined, and who wished a service on Sunday. The Chaplain of Nagpur at that time was a liberal-minded man with whom the speaker was in terms of friendly intimacy, and he, without giving the formal permission which he was unable to give, told him he could hold the service in the church without asking permission. For more than a year they had a service there every Sabbath evening. Then the Chaplain was transferred, and many residents also transferred, and the service came to an end never to be resumed on the same lines. Union and co-operation were in the air just now, and he thought that there was an opportunity for it. These buildings were in many cases standing empty—the church at Wardha had not been occupied more than six times during the last two years, and where there were Missionaries in the stations able and willing to conduct a service they might quite well be placed at their disposal when not required by the Chaplain. It was a great deal in a small station to have a regular service in the church every Sunday. He had not come in contact much with the agents of this Society, but he had met with those who had been under their influence, and he recalled the pleasure with which they spoke of the services they had attended, and the benefit they had derived from them. He hoped the Society would be more and more supported and be enabled to send out many more men to engage in this very important, very interesting, and very arduous work.

Lord Polwarth had to leave the meeting at this stage, and before vacating the Chair his Lordship put the motion to the meeting. It was carried unanimously.
Sir Alexander Simpson then took the Chair.

The Rev. Frank Askcroft moved "That as those of our countrymen in India who were removed from the ordinary means of grace had a strong claim on the sympathy and help of the people at home, and that as their number was constantly growing, the objects of this Society, which was founded to provide for the spiritual welfare of such persons, were deserving of a generous and increasing measure of support." He had always, he said, taken an interest in those small groups of Scotsmen and Englishmen who were all over the whole of India, and, as an honorary Chaplain, had done very much the same work the Society's agents were doing. The agents who went to some railway junction to conduct service for the railway company employees had a strong claim on their sympathies, and he did not know of any work that was fuller of discomfort and fatigue than that which these agents undertook so cheerfully year after year in India. Having noted that travelling in India was no joke, and pointed out the discomforts of a railway missionary itinerancy, he alluded to the great number of young Scotsmen in the railway service in India. These were of distinct ability and good character. The railway company was far too alive to its own interest to send out to India the scapegrace and the useless hand. They wanted intelligent, hard-working, respectable men in their employment, and these young men were chosen with the greatest care. They came out to one of these lonely stations, and, if they were neglected for a year or two the habits with which they came away from Scotland, tend to disappear, and the temptations by which they were surrounded rapidly get hold of them. They should remember what their agents were doing to get hold of these young men, to influence them for good and encourage them to come to the services. After a time, these young men married and settled down with their wives and children in some deserted, lonely spot. He felt great sympathy for the poor wife left lonely from time to time with the children, battling with sickness and the despair that came in such circumstances. Their agent was useful in regard to these cases, sometimes giving medical treatment. On the ground of example to the native population, he urged the importance of these little companies of people living a wholesome Christian life. They were able to exercise a wonderful example for good or evil. He instanced a case where to some natives their idea of a Christian was a drunken engine-driver, and in interesting fashion he pictured a native boy playing the character of a European swaggering about with a big cigar, gazing at buildings and indulging in a good many expletives. When, by-and-by, a great ingathering came all over the Indian empire a great deal would be due to the good and godly lives of unknown Scotsmen and Scotswomen and Englishmen and English women, in these isolated places, who had been holding to their testimony as servants of God.

Mr John M'Dowall, an agent of the Society, who, after nine years' labour was in this country on furlough and whose wife was present in the meeting, seconded the motion, and emphasised what had been said regarding the need for work in outlying districts of India. He instanced his meeting with a European in a railway train who had broken down at the simple announcement that the speaker was a Missionary, and who had asked the agent to communicate with the wife and home he had left the night before with the assurance of his intention to reform. People in this country could not know what the temptations of India were to the young men, Europeans, who went out to that great land. Some parts of the world were called "The White Man's Grave," but it might be said of India that it was the burial place of many a moral character. Nothing but a knowledge of Christ as Saviour would save a young man from the downward path in India.

In submitting the motion the CHAIRMAN said the record of the Society was a steady record of consistent and persistent work in that great land, and it met the needs of their countrymen there.

The motion was carried.

The Rev. Dr MORRISON moved "That cordial thanks are due to the honorary Secretaries, Treasurers, and Lady Collectors, and to the members of the Anglo-Indian Ladies' Union for their devoted labours during the year, and also to Lady Russell and the Edinburgh Ladies' Committee and other friends, for so kindly providing for the social part of this meeting." He said there was no more important work than that of these ladies, and he called upon them with hopefulness to go forward to the work of another year with increased persistence, and they were grateful, he felt sure, to Lady Russell and the other friends for providing such an excellent tea.

The Chairman seconded the motion, which was unanimously carried.

The Rev. T. H. GREIG moved a vote of thanks to speakers and Chairman, and pronounced the benediction.

A collection was taken during the meeting amounting to £5, 11s. 4d.
